SEN. BORAH TO OPPOSE GERMAN PEACE TREATY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—"I am opposed to the German peace treaty," This emphatic statement was authorized by Senator Borah of Idaho, a republican member of the foreign relations committee, last night. It is the first explicit indication of his attitude. He has been studying the treaty ever since it was made public some time ago, comparing its provisions with those carried in the treaty of Versailles to which frequent reference is made. He has reached the conclusion that it is impossible for him to support the pact.

Although Senator Borah would not go beyond announcing his opposition to the German peace treaty, it is known that he will lead the anti-ratificationists. At the same time Mr. Borah will not conduct a filibuster or seek to delay final action. He will present his views fully, explaining to the country exactly how the German pact endorses the Versailles treaty.

After analyzing all the features of the German pact and comparing them with the original sections of the Versailles convention, Senator Borah considers that the treaty as drawn binds the United States to participation in the Versailles conclusions. In the opinion of Senator Borah the United States, following ratification, would be morally and more or less legally bound to support the treaty of Versailles and aid in making it effective. In other words, that in ratification the United States accepts the Versailles treaty with the exception of the features expressly indicated. In his judgment this should not be, because it will result in intermeddling with the affairs of Europe and other portions of the world in the future.

There is nothing to indicate what assistance will be given him in opposition of ratification. At the same

200,000 Pesos Stolen In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 21.—Charges in the newspapers that more than 200,000 pesos in silver are missing from the special fund of the chamber of deputies out of which salaries of members and "extraordinary expenses incident to the celebration of the Mexican centennial anniversary" were to be met, have created a sensation here. It is declared that an official who might be able to clear up the mystery surrounding the alleged deficit has been missing since Monday.

League Startled By Hostilities

GENEVA, Sept. 21. (By the Associated Press).—Announcement that hostilities between Jugo-Slavia and Albania have broken out has startled the assembly of the League of Nations, in session here, and there is a disposition on the part of many of the more prominent leaders to bring the situation before the assembly at the earliest possible moment. Lord Robert Cecil, representing the Union of South Africa, and Dr. Fridtjof Nansen of Norway, are particularly anxious that the assembly should take some action regarding the situation.

20,000 Odd Fellows In Parade

TORONTO, Sept. 21.—A parade of more than 20,000 Odd Fellows was the principal event on today's program of the Sovereign Grand Lodge convention in session here. The parade, it was stated, would be over four miles long with several hundred floats and 60 bands. The biggest man scheduled to march was George Montgomery of Detroit, who is seven feet 1 1/4 inches tall.

Central American Federation

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, Sept. 21.—Announcement is made that the government of the Central American Federation will become operative Feb. 10, 1922. The constitution of the federation was published here yesterday in the Diario Oficial.

Serious Disorders In Vienna

VIENNA, Sept. 21.—Serious disorders occurred in this city yesterday following the closing of the Bourse. Many rushes were made upon the entrances to the building, but these were checked by the police. The crowds then wrecked the shops of several money changers in the vicinity, while a few men suspected of speculating in foreign exchange were dragged from their automobiles and beaten.

Notice this delicious flavor when you smoke Lucky Strike—it's sealed in by the toasting process pronounced satisfactory by a large proportion of the republicans and democrats and it is not expected that 33 votes could be mustered against it. It is assumed that Senators Taft, Lett and Norris will co-operate with Borah, but Johnson of California has given no inkling as to what his position will be.

Republican leaders of the senate were notified yesterday by President Harding that he will send in the German peace treaty today. At the same time he will submit the treaties with Hungary and Austria. The treaties will be at once referred to the committee on foreign relations. It is believed little time will be consumed in committee and an early report to the senate is anticipated.

The plan of some republican leaders to have the treaties debated behind closed doors also is threatened with opposition. An effort to have the debate in the senate is expected to precede the controversy over the treaties themselves.

GIRL'S CLOTHING TORN BY MYSTERIOUS HANDS

KENNEBUNK, Me., Sept. 21.—That a caged spirit is savagely trying to beat its way out of the frail body of Florence Harriman is the belief of her parents, friends and relatives. For more than four weeks this little girl has been the center of a series of manifestations that are apparently inexplicable. The home of her father, in Kennebunkport, has been turned topsy-turvy and the malign influence has even followed the little girl to the home of her aunt, Mrs. Everett Rowe, in Brown street, Kennebunk.

Florence Harriman is only 14 years old and unattractive in appearance. Unmoved by the unseen force that has surrounded her, even though her clothing has been ripped to shreds on her body and her mother has been driven close to the verge of a nervous breakdown. Yesterday she played with a little puppy dog while her father, Arthur Harriman, told a reporter about the religion of terror that has turned his home into a nightmare dwelling.

No one has any explanation for the force working about Florence Harriman. A well-known spiritualist medium from Portland visited the Harrimans and confessed herself completely baffled. Florence goes about with perfect unconcern. She doesn't understand it either, she says.

Spectacles in the town were at first inclined to put the whole business down as a joke. They thought someone was trying to show the Harrimans a good time. Some friend, they believed, was rapping on the walls on the Harriman house and upsetting chairs and tables. But they don't think that way now. The air of mystery surrounding the whole affair has deepened to such an extent that the Harriman "ghost" has become the sole topic of conversation in the town.

Monday night, Mr. Harriman swears the "ghost" visited little Florence again and talked with her. There were none of the previous manifestations such as the ripping of bed clothes or the breaking of plaster. But just as the clock struck midnight, Mr. Harriman says he woke with a start. His daughter's room adjoins his and he could hear her whispering in the dark.

"Florence, are you awake?" he called.

"Yes, papa, I am," was the prompt response, and then the whispering continued. Mr. Harriman says it made the cold chills rise on his body as he listened to the little girl's whispering.

He went into the room with a light and she was staring, he says, at a black wall and whispering confidently. She was not asleep and not dreaming, but as soon as he came into the room, her father says, she gave a dash and sank back on her pillow sound asleep. She does not remember anything of the whispering, but recalls her father asking her if she was awake.

NEW VEILS WORN UPSIDE DOWN

thing in these feminine face coverings? It is to gasp with admiration. The latest imports in veils at Lord & Taylor's are gorgeously embroidered in glowing flowers and fruits.

Brilliant geraniums bloom amid vivid leaves. Plums and cherries cluster over the lattice of chintilly mesh.

The new veils are worn upside down with the border up over the hat and the fine mesh of the veils falls over the face.

Veils this season are terribly "vogue." They are of all sizes and pretensions. Some of them have exquisite borders. Originally of mesh is a feature, some square meshes measuring a quarter of an inch.

The big mesh veil is especially good and when combined with the chenille and chintilly lace border is decidedly chic.

The dotted chenille veils bear such heavy dots that one wonders sometimes how a woman can manage to peek over them. But one thing is most striking—that is the heavy borders instead of leaving the loose over the face are draped over the hat. In the brilliant new colored borders, the designs look as though they were really a decoration of the hat.

DISORDER IN NEW YORK

Police Charge Crowd With Clubs and Scatter Food Distributors

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Bryant park was the scene of another disturbance last night when police swarmed into it to disperse a crowd of unemployed, attacking with night sticks many who did not move fast enough and beating them over the head and shoulders. Several men were thrown to the pavement in the scuffle.

The police charge occurred when six elderly women, members of a charitable organization known as "The Sun-Set Club," began to distribute sandwiches among the men who sleep in the park. The women were jostled during the encounter and Mrs. Eleanor Chapman, a grandmother, aged 50, was carried away by friends. She declared she would file assault charges against the police who participated.

The men were driven out of the park and the food was eventually distributed on the sidewalk outside. The police said they broke up the crowd because it was "obstructing traffic."

Urban Lehoux continued his practice of distributing food cups among the unemployed during a tour made last night along the water front and the lower part of New York. He was accompanied by a police sergeant.

URGES CONSUMERS TO BUY COAL

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—State Fuel Administrator Hultman yesterday warned consumers against delay in buying in their winter's coal supplies, declaring that Boston retailers had delivered about 20 per cent. less coal in the five months ended Aug. 31 last than during the corresponding period in 1920.

The situation in this city is not alarming at present, Mr. Hultman said, but interference with the normal flow of coal from producer to consumer would result in conditions similar to those existing last year. The retail price of coal has dropped from $16 to $14.75 and $15 a ton since a year ago, while the wholesale prices at the mine have remained substantially unchanged and rail freight rates on the Boston & Albany and New York, New Haven & Hartford railroads have advanced 42 and 44 cents, respectively, he said.

Dealers have large stocks of coal on hand at present, he added.

LARCENY FROM LOWELL WOMAN CHARGED

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—Ernest E. Smith and Nathaniel W. Miles, members of the bankrupt firm of Ernest E. Smith & Co., pleaded not guilty yesterday to indictments charging larceny of stock certificates from Miss Emma Butterfield of Lowell. They were held in $5000 bonds each for trial.

Smith also pleaded not guilty to a charge of having criminally libeled District Attorney S. Howard Donnell of Essex county in a statement made following his arrest. He furnished $5000 bonds in this case also.

A British company claims that chalk can be used as a coal substitute.

ATE NOTHING BUT

LIQUIDS FOR A YEAR

"I'M CONVINCED TANLAC SAVED MY LIFE," SAYS MRS. MONETTE—GAINS 30 POUNDS

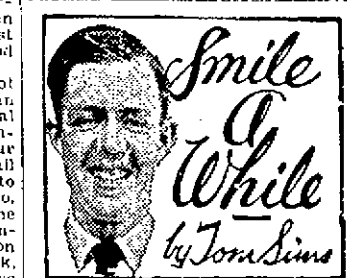

"I just can't help but believe Tanlac has saved my life," said Mrs. Belle Monette, 261 Chestnut St., Springfield, Mass.

"Besides relieving me of three years' awful suffering, Tanlac has built me up fifteen pounds in weight, and I actually feel twenty years younger."

"After getting up from a terrible attack of pneumonia in 1918, it seemed that my health was completely and hopelessly wrecked. For almost a year I had to live on liquid food, and my stomach was so weak I could take but very little of that. I couldn't eat anything substantial to give me any strength, and could hardly do a bit of my housework. My head hurt so bad for days at a time it seemed like it would burst, and I often got so dizzy I couldn't stand up."

"Well, a few bottles of Tanlac have completely restored my health, strength and energy, and I can now do all my housework without getting tired. I eat more at one meal now than I used to eat in two days, and everything agrees with me and I never have a headache or dizzy spell any more. Tanlac certainly has been a godsend to me."

Tanlac and Tanlac Vegetable Pills are sold in Lowell by Green's Drug Store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative; by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; by Clifford's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

SENATE LEADERSHIP MAY BE CHANGED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Possibility of changes in leadership of senate republicans was discussed yesterday by members returning for the re-assembling of congress today. Senator Lodge is to continue as floor leader but other changes in the majority party organization were said to be under consideration.

Senator Cummings of Iowa has been in ill health for several months and should he desire to relinquish his duties as president pro tempore of the senate it was said that Senator Curtis, vice chairman of the republican conference and party whip probably would be the choice for the office. Senator Watson of Indiana was reported to be favored in that event, as successor to Senator Curtis as vice-chairman and whip.

WILD RUNAWAY IN MERRIMACK STREET

Crashing into three autos on a wild dash through Merrimack street, throwing its driver, Ira E. Shaw of 29 Nelson street, from the seat, a runaway horse (furnished the people of that section plenty of excitement at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Although Mr. Shaw's arms and eyes were somewhat injured he was able to go to his home after being treated at St. John's hospital.

The horse was drawing an ice wagon owned by the Gage Ice company. Near Palmer street the animal became frightened and bolted, Shaw losing control.

Racing down Merrimack street the team crashed against an auto in front of Macartney's store. The animal tore loose and galloped on hitting two more machines. The last crash tore the shafts away from the wagon and hurled Shaw to the street.

Shaw was picked up and given first aid at Bailey's drug store and removed to the hospital. The horse was halted on East Merrimack street uninjured.

SURPRISE PARTY

An enjoyable surprise party was held last night at the home of Mrs. Mary Gordon, 41 Loring street in honor of her kins, Mr. and Mrs. Finlay.

Three Epochs in Woman's Life

There are three critical stages in a woman's life which leave their marks on her career—the first when she changes from a care-free girl to a woman, the second motherhood, and the third is change of life. Most of the misery which comes to women through ill health dates from one or another of these periods, but women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a reliable remedy and has been very successful in overcoming the ailments which may come to them at these times, as it is a natural restorative for such conditions. Nearly a half a century of success attests Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to the respect and confidence of every fair-minded woman.—Adv.

Ladies' Auxiliary, A.O.H.

President Gaffney occupied the chair at the regular meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary, Div. 1, A.O.H. which was held last evening in A.O.H. hall, Middle street. Several applications for membership were received, routine business was transacted and plans were made to send eight of the officers to the biennial convention of Middlesex county, which will be held in Woburn, Sept. 25.

Any organization, society, club or other gathering of citizens wishing information concerning the proposed new charter which has been drafted by the Lowell charter commission, will be furnished a speaker by the commission. It was announced after a meeting of the commission in city hall last evening.

Any individual citizen wishing detailed information concerning the new charter is requested to communicate with Chairman James B. Casey or Secretary Abel R. Campbell.

The commission authorized the chairman to appoint a publicity committee to give service to the public from now until the date of the special election on Oct. 13 at which the proposed charter will be accepted or rejected by the public.

Adventures of the Twins

TUBBY TERRAPIN

"KEEP MOVING, PLEASE! YOU AREN'T ALLOWED TO STOP HERE!"

"Keep moving! Keep moving!" shouted Cap'n Pennywinkle, waving his stick at the big fishes and sea-creatures that passed.

Isn't it a good thing, my dears, that there is someone to see to it that traffic in the sea never stops. Have you ever wondered why it is that the fishes never stop, but swim hither and thither, this way and that, back and forth, never stopping at all? Well, now you know, that it is because somewhere, down underneath the waves, Cap'n Pennywinkle is shouting at the top of his lungs, "Move on everybody! Keep moving!" And everybody minds him.

When Nancy and Nick returned from Lopsy Lobster's house to deliver Lopsy's message to the fairy policeman, that is what he was doing, trying his best to keep the crossroads clear. But a big brown object lying flat in the bottom of the sea, refused to move at all.

Cap'n Pennywinkle pranced around the brown object on his sea-horse, Curly, and called out as loudly as he could, "Keep moving, please! You are not allowed to stop here! Keep moving!"

But the object didn't please. It settled itself down as firmly in the sandy bottom as the pyramids of Egypt.

"What is it?" asked Nancy. "Why doesn't it move?" "It's Tubby Terrapin," said Pennywinkle with a grim nod. "He does what he pleases, where he pleases, and when he pleases, and he's got a disposition like a stalled engine. A mule isn't in it. Also he's just as hard to start as a stalled engine, for when he settles, he settles for good and dynamite itself couldn't move him."

The Twins surveyed Mr. Terrapin thoughtfully.

"We might pull him out of the way if we all help," suggested Nick. Cap'n Pennywinkle lifted his brows. "We can't for there's nothing to take hold of!" he declared.

COST OF LIVING

Slight Advance Since June Says State Commission

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Sept. 21.—The cost of living has advanced approximately one and three-tenths per cent since last June, according to figures published today by the state commission on necessities of life.

August showed an increase of nearly one-half of one per cent, the advance in that month being faster than in either of its predecessors. At present the commission points out, the cost of living is 61.4 per cent higher than in July, 1914, when the war broke out.

"The cost of living in Massachusetts," the commission says, "increased more than 0.4 per cent in August over the previous month, and has advanced 1.3 per cent since June, when the steady decline in prices, which had been going on since July, 1920, reached its lowest point. The August figure is 161.4 per cent on a basis of 100 per cent in July, 1914, and although the net decrease effected since the peak of high prices was reached approximately 26.3 per cent, prices are still 61.4 per cent higher than the pre-war level. Details for the various necessities of life follow:

June, 1921—Food, 133.5; clothing, 127.1; shelter, 169.4; fuel, etc., 176.1; sundries, 185.

July, 1921—Food, 139.5; clothing, 131.5; shelter, 169.4; fuel, etc., 175.9; sundries, 180.8.

August, 1921—Food, 142.2; clothing, 137.1; shelter, 168.4; fuel, etc., 175.9; sundries, 182.

The advance is almost wholly traceable to the rise in food prices, and as this important element comprises one-half the average budget, the changes have been sufficient to more than offset the gradual downward trend in the price of clothing.

Food, it will be noted, increased 1.9 per cent over July, and 6.6 per cent over June.

"This element in the budget has shown a considerable drop since the peak, however, having declined 34.4 per cent in the 13 months ending Aug. 31.

"The August figure for food is a net increase of 12.2 per cent over 1914 prices. Dairy products contributed chiefly to the increase of food costs, having generally advanced about 14 per cent during the months of July and August.

"Other articles of food which increased during the same period are: Whole ham and fresh pork loins, 15 per cent; lard and evaporated apples, 10 per cent; whole bacon and canned tomatoes, 8 per cent; salt pork, 7 per cent; rice, canned corn and dried beans, 5 per cent; western fowl, 4 per cent; sugar, 2 per cent; and corn meal and wheat flour, 1 per cent.

"Clothing continues to decline slowly, and is rated in August at a figure 35.5 per cent lower than the peak price, which was reached in April, 1920. Blue serge suits, hats and men's collars were important factors in the reduction.

"Shelter, fuel, etc., remained practically unchanged throughout the summer months."

Prominent Member of Local Polish Colony Will Make Business Trip to His Old Home

Anthony Pomporowicz, a prominent member of the local Polish colony, who is soon to leave for Poland, was given a send-off at his home in West Fourth street last evening. There was a large number of Mr. Pomporowicz's friends present and all showered him with best wishes. Interesting remarks were made by Mayor Thomas J. Kravitz and entertainment numbers were given. A buffet luncheon was also served. Mr. Pomporowicz is going to Poland on business and expects to return to Lowell next spring.

Refers Question to Solicitor

the matter might be cleared up and the city's liabilities in the matter determined. Chairman Delaney, at the request of Mr. Donnelly of the committee, called a special meeting for 5.30 p. m. yesterday was in session for more than an hour discussing not only Maj. Jeyes' case but a number of collateral matters including the right of the board to elect any teacher in any department of the public schools without the recommendation of the superintendent. This question was also referred to the city solicitor for elucidation. Supt. Molloy had previously contended that Maj. Jeyes could not be elected without his recommendation.

After the committee had discussed Maj. Jeyes' status for some time Mr. Donnelly said he wished to bring matters to a head and moved that it be the sense of the board that Maj. Jeyes be considered as still occupying his position.

Mr. Molloy: "If that means an election, it must be recommended by the superintendent."

Mr. Delaney: "All we have to go by are the records which show that Maj. Jeyes has previously been recommended."

Mr. Bergeron: "I'm really not prepared to vote on this matter at such short notice. It must have been at least 2.30 this afternoon when I got my notice of this special meeting. Why not let it go over until our next regular meeting? We must go slowly on a matter of this kind and not do something we may have to undo later. If we accept the superintendent's recommendation as to Mr. MacIntyre, then Maj. Jeyes' position is secondary. The state law does not specify how much physical work we are to do in our schools. We should decide how much we are going to do before we start electing supervisors."

Mr. Warner: "I move that the matter be laid on the table until our next regular meeting."

The roll was called. Messrs. Bergeron and Warner voted "yes" and Messrs. Donnelly and Markham "no." Mr. Delaney said he would vote "yes" provided somebody is put in charge of the work in the meantime. The motion was not carried.

Mr. Donnelly: "I've been endeavoring for some time to get the board interested in this matter. I think the members have had enough time since the last meeting to think it over."

Supt. Molloy on being questioned said that he told Maj. Jeyes when the schools were opening that he had no authority to give him instructions. If the mayor continued to do the work of a physical supervisor, he supposed he would be in the same class with a school physician who had not been elected by the board but who continued to do the work of a school physician. "He would simply do it, that's all," concluded the superintendent.

definitely settle the matter: My contention is that the mayor is no longer employed by the school department."

Mr. Delaney: "I maintain that he is employed until his position is abolished. Another question which enters into the matter is whether Major

MAJOR WALTER R. JEYES

Jeyes has any additional rights as a veteran of three wars."

Mr. Markham: "I move that the board ask the city solicitor whether Major Jeyes has acquired tenure of office."

Mr. Donnelly: "I should like to amend that motion by referring to the city solicitor the question as to whether Maj. Jeyes is now an employee of the department by reason of the fact that he is a veteran of three wars and that he has been three times elected to the position."

Supt. Molloy suggested that the solicitor might also be asked to give an opinion on the legality of an election without the recommendation of the superintendent.

Mr. Markham: "Well, to clear matters up, let us ask the solicitor if the city treasurer has any warrant to pay the salary of a teacher not recommended by the superintendent."

Mr. Delaney: "There's another motion before us."

Thereupon it was agreed to combine Mr. Markham's first motion and Mr. Donnelly's amendment, referring to the city solicitor the question of Maj. Jeyes' tenure of office and his legal employment in the department at the present time. The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. Markham: "The superintendent says that the supervisor of physical training must be elected on his recommendation. Let us determine once and for all whether the school department is warranted in paying the salaries of teachers and supervisors in the public schools who have not been recommended by the superintendent."

Mr. Delaney: "I think you're all out of order. This meeting was called for one specific purpose."

Mr. Markham contended that other matters might be brought up as long as the committee was in session. There was some discussion of Mr. Markham's motion that the city solicitor be asked to pass upon the right of the school board to elect any teacher in any department and to pay his or her salary without the recommendation of the superintendent. The motion was finally carried with Mr. Warner voting "no."

Vocational School Crowding

Mr. Donnelly asked if the superintendent had any recommendations to make relative to over-crowding at the Vocational school. He said he had talked with Mr. Fisher and the latter said that there were 65 boys seeking admission to the school who could not be accommodated.

"The capacity of the school for industrial work is filled," said Mr. Molloy. "There are no more vocational accommodations but many of the children who are seeking admission to the Vocational school should properly be in the grammar school. We have plenty of room for them there."

Mr. Donnelly: "I think it's a crying shame with some of our school buildings overcrowded and others empty we can't do something to regulate matters. The old Moody school is empty."

Mr. Delaney: "I think the Moody school matter was disposed of last year. It is too far away from the Vocational school and would cost too much money to fix up."

Mr. Molloy: "You must remember that the Vocational school is not a wholly municipally managed proposition. The state has an interest in it."

It was finally decided to have Mr. Molloy bring in at the next meeting information from both the city and state Vocational school authorities relative to crowded conditions.

Chairman Delaney wanted to know about a mass meeting held recently by parents of children of the Washington and Lincoln school district as a protest against these children going to the Morey school. The superintendent said that he had attended the meeting but that he had received no formal request for a hearing on the matter by the school board.

Mr. Delaney said that a Sunday newspaper had given the impression that the board had refused to grant a hearing. He wanted it definitely understood that as soon as a request in writing for a hearing is received it will be given.

The chairman said he had one more question—whether children in the public schools were required to buy anything in the line of textbooks or supplies. He had received complaints, he said. The superintendent said that he knew of nothing a school child was obliged to buy in the way of text books or supplies.

Sharp Note to Soviet Russia

Claims Precedence Today
Over Irish Question

Protests Hostile Activities of Bolshevik Agents in Near

Lloyd George To Appeal To Country For Mandate In Dealing With Irish Cause

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Great Britain's sharp note to the Russian soviet government relative to hostile activities of Bolshevik agents in the near east and in India today claimed precedence in interest here over the Irish situation. Mr. Lloyd George will probably have an informal talk over Irish affairs today with members of his cabinet who are at Gairloch, Scotland, and Ireland will be the subject of a conference here tomorrow, but the protest sent to George Chicherin, soviet foreign minister, by Earl Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs made public yesterday, seemed to have many features which appeared to have shadow important developments.

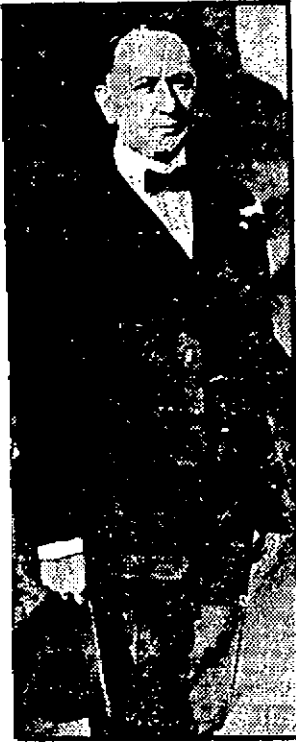

Soviet Russia was accused of having carried on propaganda in Persia and Afghanistan, with sending agents into eastern Afghanistan for the purpose of getting in touch with disorderly elements in India and with preventing a settlement of pending disputes between the Turkish nationalists and the allied powers. The soviet government was asked for assurances that these activities would cease, and it was intimated that the commercial agreement between this country and Russia would be imperiled by continued hostile machinations of Bolshevik emissaries.

The impression exists that Prime Minister Lloyd George intends to appeal to the country in a general election for a mandate in dealing with the Irish question, the problems arising from unemployment, the reparations situation and a number of other knotty matters which are pressing for settlement. The decision that neither Mr. Lloyd George nor Earl Curzon would attend the Washington conference on the limitation of armaments tend color to this belief.

FEDERAL ACTION MAY BE TAKEN AGAINST KLAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Attorney General Daugherty and Director Burns of the bureau of investigation were to confer today concerning the necessity of advisability of seeking an investigation of the Ku Klux Klan. Mr. Burns has been conducting an inquiry upon which to base a report today and in addition Mr. Daugherty has recently discussed the matter with District Attorney Hayward of New York and several assistant attorneys general.

An investigation of the Ku Klux Klan is also proposed by Representative Tague, democrat, Massachusetts in a resolution which he has prepared and expects to introduce today. In the preamble he asserts that the organization is anti-American and that its objects and purposes are "the exile and suppression of persons members of certain races and religious sects."

"The Ku Klux Klan has in more than 100 instances been charged with unlawful seizure, abduction, trial and punishment of certain free citizens and residents of the United States," Representative Tague said in a formal statement, "and is operating in violation of Articles IV and VI of our constitution, which guarantees against unlawful search, for protection of life and property, and for jury trial. It also violates those sections which relate to freedom of religious worship and involuntary servitude."

REPUBLIC PROCLAIMED IN WEST HUNGARY

VIENNA, Sept. 21.—Stephan Friedrich, former Hungarian premier, arrived at Oedenburg, Burgenland, on Monday, and proclaimed West Hungary a republic. It is declared by newspapers here that the Hungarian government has ordered the Hungarian army to the hands of insurgent Hungarian bands but they were believed to have withdrawn, for the most part, as a result of representations by allied authorities. Assertion is made here, however, that these bands have been constantly reinforced until their membership number nearly 30,000 and it is said they are so well armed and equipped that it is doubtful if Hungarian soldiers would cope with them.

Military forces commanded by Friedrich are reported to be assembling at Steinamanger, an belief is expressed here that the Carlists and the Legationists have joined issue over the Burgenland question.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 21.—Austrian reports that Stephan Friedrich has proclaimed a republic in West Hungary, and that the Carlists and the Legationists have joined issue over the Burgenland question.

KU KLUX KLAN PARADE

300 Kidnap Editor and Parade Main Streets of Oklahoma Cities

SHAWNEE, Okla., Sept. 21.—Three hundred members of the Ku Klux Klan, in official regalia, marched through the main streets of Shawnee and Tecumseh late last night after capturing the night editor of a local newspaper and taking him on the journey. Nothing was done other than to display banners and send a warning note to law violators through the columns of a Shawnee newspaper.

Before allowing the newspaperman to leave the car in which he was taken on the trip, the following note was handed to him, addressed to a Shawnee newspaper:

"We are one thousand strong in Shawnee. Good Americans uphold the law. Watch the ownership of your paper and keep it in the hands of good Americans. We will clean Shawnee when the time is ripe. Bootleggers and gamblers will save trouble by leaving now."

In addition to the warning sent to the newspapers the following banners were carried on the sides of the 60 cars in the parade:

"Judges, you know your duty—we are with you when you do it, but you must do it."

"Look out if you do not heed these signs."

"Footling around the other fellow's home is not wise."

"Joy riders be careful."

"Lawyers, make your money off legitimate cases."

"If you want to be healthy, don't go on law-breakers' hands."

For Unemployment Relief

The fact that special sessions of the general court have been held during the past two years on matters which were of less vital importance than the present unemployment crisis is given by the local legislators as one of the reasons for a special session this year.

Unless the governor orders a special session, the legislature will not again meet until January. By that time, the winter will be at its height and unless there is an improvement in industrial conditions, it is pointed out that much suffering may result.

The suggestion made by Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy at yesterday's meeting of the municipal council that civil service laws be suspended for a period of three months also meets with the approval of the Lowell legislators. The question has come up whether the governor alone will be able to bring about such suspension by appealing to the civil service commission to suspend temporarily its regulations insofar as they pertain to Lowell or whether the legislature will have to take action to bring about such procedure. Those familiar with state house matters incline to the belief that the civil service commission has the authority to suspend its own laws.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson has written to Governor Cox as directed by the municipal council and expects a reply within a day or two. The mayor feels that the city itself is doing all it can possibly do to relieve the situation. He says he does not believe there is any necessity for a committee to handle the situation.

In the meantime, Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy is preparing to discharge over 200 men legally employed by him, according to the civil service commission. Most of these men have been given only a week's work now and then and do not constitute the regular force of the department. From now on Mr. Murphy will employ no man unless his name has been certified by the civil service commission.

ULTIMATUM NOT YET SENT TO HUNGARY

LONDON, Sept. 21.—(By the Associated Press)—The council of ambassadors has not yet sent to the Hungarian government its ultimatum regarding the evacuation of Burgenland, awarded to Austria by the treaty of Trianon but it is understood the terms of the ultimatum have been decided upon.

The time limit to be given Hungary for the evacuation of Burgenland will be 15 days to a fortnight.

MILL CLUB TO HAVE BOWLING LEAGUE

At a meeting of the Massachusetts Mill Athletic association held last evening in the club rooms in one of the mill buildings, plans to organize a bowling league were perfected. The meeting was presided over by President John Cheswick and every department of the mill was well represented.

After it was voted to form a league, a committee was appointed to see the officers of last year's bowling league and induce them, if possible, to again take charge of the league this year as the members were well satisfied with the work accomplished and the efficient manner in which the league was conducted.

The following captains were appointed: Fred Eldridge, yard team; Frank Boyle, card room; Henry Scanlon, cloth room; J. Swanson, dress room; Richard Potter, weave room; Patrick Neville, spinning room; H. Clough, dye house and Jack O'Leary, machine shop.

It was announced that the game schedules will be placed in the hands of the printer at the earliest date possible and that Kitteridge's alleys have been retained for the opening game, which will be rolled October 19. Another meeting will be held Monday evening, September 26 at the mill club rooms for further arrangements, and the captains of the various teams are requested to be present so as to make arrangements for the opening night and also draw up a set of resolutions and by-laws. A very successful season is looked for by all the employees of the mill who are interested in bowling.

Investigating Water Supply

Continued

Interests of the city to any project which would serve to reduce the flow or power of the Merrimack river was made known to the committee members who said that they had come merely to investigate all possible sources of supply as directed by the legislature.

In connection with the trip of the ### committee Chief Engineer Goodenough of the state department of health has prepared for the members of the committee a memorandum reviewing the history of water supplies in this section and also pointing out the need for additional sources of supply in the near future.

He takes pains to repeat the warning sent to the city of Lowell some years ago, advising against the continued use of water from the River Meadowbrook, which is found objectionable because of the presence of an excessive amount of carbonic acid, and which some years ago was the cause of a serious epidemic of lead poisoning.

Mr. Goodenough also refers to the old suggestion that the waters of the Merrimack be used as a source of supply for the metropolitan district, and while he makes no specific recommendation with reference to it, by inference he permits the committee to understand that he does not approve the project.

LITTLE PERSONAL PRIDE'S ALL RIGHT

BY MME. MOREAU

PARIS, Sept. 21.—You'll never know what a thoroughly vain woman you can be until your nails are in perfect trim—and better yet until you have made them so yourself!

And you can make them so: It's all in getting your pride worked up to the point where it will make you work for it. Really, a little vanity or personal pride is good for your soul!

It keeps you sweeter from the inside out! It won't let you sag.

Perhaps you never thought of changing your nails from the pudgy, unattractive things which they are to nice, tapering ones? But you can, you know! The world is full of concrete feminine proof!

First cut your nails down quite deep on the sides. Not so deep that they'll really hurt, but well down. Then soak them in warm soapy water. If they're the kind of nails which curl down and grow proud flesh underneath, take your orange stick and work away under them, gently but firmly wedging away the proud flesh until you have the white part of the nail quite free of flesh.

Some of the flesh substance will be hard and white, callous and rather dead; take your cuticle scissors and cut that all neatly away. Then pad just lots of cuticle cream all around where you've been cutting and pushing back to prevent any soreness.

Cut your nails ovally; don't point them! Keep in mind, for the entire shape of your nails, a perfect oval from tip to tip, pushing back and cutting to get the effect.

And in little moments pinch the tips of your fingers, to make them more neatly pointed.

Keep it up all winter!

By spring your friends will be wondering how you ever acquired your lovely, tapering fingers and beautifully shaped nails.

entered the home after hearing Ardith moan. She found her playmate beside a bed in which lay the body of her sister. In another bed lay the bodies of the parents. A club into which nails had been driven was standing against the wall. On the wall nearby was a bloody finger print.

The club had been used to beat the heads of the victims almost beyond recognition. The interior of the home indicated no struggle had taken place and the victims' clothing was not disarranged, leading officers to believe the three had been killed as they slept.

Neighbors asserted the crime probably took place Saturday night as members of the Monroe family were last seen at that time. It is believed Ardith lay wounded on the floor nearly 60 hours before being discovered.

Authorities so far have been unable to establish a motive for the crime, as the home was not robbed. Officers believe it was the act of an insane person. Two inmates of the state hospital at Kalamazoo, near here, escaped a week ago, and officers are searching for them, although hospital authorities declared neither of the men was of the criminal type.

NEW STEAM HEATING PLANT SATISFACTORY

The new steam heating system devised to heat the various buildings which go to make up the high school group, was given its first try-out yesterday, and proved most successful. The boilers in the new heating plant were put into operation for the first time and a pressure of 40 pounds sent through the pipes underground to the old high school building in Kirk street. The building immediately warmed up. A few radiators were found where valves will have to be tightened. But with that exception, the system worked perfectly and will be put into permanent operation when the weather warrants it.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles HAVE TO GO

Clogged up kidney deposits are dissolved and the toxins (poisons) completely driven out. "Your very life," says Dr. Carey, "depends upon the perfect functioning of your kidneys." Don't neglect them. When your back aches, have darning pains, dizziness, headaches, bad stomach and tongue, annoying bladder troubles, cloudy urine, rheumatism, puffy eyes, specks, or any other tendency to Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Gravel, Kidney Trouble in its worst form may be stealing upon you. Never mind the fallacious of the past, insist upon having, at once, a bottle of guaranteed Dr. Carey's Marsh-Rose Prescription No. 777. (Liquid or Tablet form) from Fred Howard, 137 Central St., A. W. Down drug store or any other reliable druggist for Kidney and Bladder troubles don't wear away; they will grow upon you slowly, stealthily and with unfailing certainty. Every good druggist has been authorized to refund purchase price on two bottles to all who state they have had no benefit.—Adv.

Here's Where You See Mary Pickford Kiss Herself

MARY IN VELVET KNICKERS MAKES A DELIGHTFUL BOY, BUT SHE'S JUST AS GOOD AS LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY'S MOTHER. SHE PLAYS BOTH ROLES IN THE PICTURE

By N.E.A. Service
NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—When you take the kiddies—as you surely should to see Mary Pickford in "Little Lord Fauntleroy," you will have an excuse the same fiction you use when you take the kiddies to the circus. You pretend you are going for their sake, sacrificing yourself so they may have enjoyment; and secretly, of course, you are simply crazy to see it yourself. Anybody would be.

For who hasn't read Frances Hodgson Burnett's story? And there's many a man who recalls the hooded misery that was his when he had a Fauntleroy costume wished on him.

Besides the picture gives you a chance to see Mary Pickford kissing herself. You've seen people double in the movies before, but this is different. It is so well done.

Mary plays little "Cordie Errol," the diminutive Lord Fauntleroy, and she also plays "Dearest," his mother. Kissing herself and passing herself a photograph—without a thought of a slight hiatus—is a triumph of filming.

Too bad you couldn't have attended the opening picture in New York. Not only were Mary and Doug there, but Mary made a speech and explained how it was done—by timing the film to the second and running it through the camera twice, exposing half of the film each time.

Thus the actions, movements and expressions converged, but to make it a success Mary had to contribute the skill and cleverness of her art. It meant plenty of patience and lots of hard work.

There wasn't much reason for this doubling. But Mary as the child and mother gives a novel touch to the picture.

She made a charming young boy and her a dainty portrayal of the misunderstood daughter-in-law of the "Earl of Dorincourt." He was a goitly old nobleman, quite hostile to the wife of his dead son. And when the spunky heir appeared it was Cordie—again Mary in velvet knickers—who put ev-everything right. Somehow Mary seemed taller as the mother than the little lord. Maybe she was on stilts, but there wasn't anything else stilted about her.

Bernard McConville wrote the screen adaptation from the Burnett story. And one of the delightfully unusual and noteworthy things about the picture is that for once at least a masterpiece has not been radically changed in the movie version.

You'll Get What You Want

Thomas H. Ince announces that as the result of the recent conference of 3200 independent theatre owners in Chicago he will immediately start work with four producing companies at Culver City. He believes in amalgamation of independent producers and independent theatre owners will have the effect of bringing out the highest possible screen art. He says the activities of theatre owners will enable the producers to get a better line on just what the theatregoers want in pictures.

Can You Swallow This?

It's always the silly season for press agents. Harry Brandt calmly claim the recent epidemic of hiccoughs was due to excessive laughter at Buster Keaton comedies.

Lon Chaney is establishing his own producing company.

Mrs. Edna Schley is doing movie comedy adaptations of Clarence Budington Kelland's "Scattergood" stories.

Max Linder, who appeared in his American-made comedy, "My Wife," as star and author and director, is working on another Goldwyn comedy, "The Golden Gift," but she says she's sticking to the short ones outside the studio.

PRETTY WITNESSES FOR ARBUCKLE TRIAL

FIVE WOMEN WHO ATTENDED ROSCOE ARBUCKLE'S SAN FRANCISCO HOTEL ROOM REVEL AS GUESTS AND WHOSE STORIES TO THE TRIAL JURY MAY SEAL THE FATE OF THE COMEDIAN ACCUSED OF VIRGINIA RAPPE'S DEATH AS AN AFTERMATH OF THE PARTY. ARBUCKLE IS SHOWN IN THE CENTER

BY JACK JUNGMEYER

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—The trial of "Fatty" Roscoe Arbuckle, accused of Virginia Rappe's death, will be featured by such an array of feminine beauty as has seldom if ever been called into a criminal case.

Guests at the fateful revel whence the handsome actress emerged hysterically to die, they will troop in to testify and seal the fate of the funny man who laughs no more.

Arbuckle professes an eye for publicity. In the films he played opposite some of the most striking beauties of the stage—graceful rolls to his ponderous grotesqueries.

Pretty Guests

At the parties for which he was celebrated in studio and he bought the same type of vivacious women to cater to his idea of a good time; and the plaudits of his off-stage guests were as agreeable to him as acclaim from a chuckling public, according to those who know him best.

So at the St. Francis "death party" invitations found their way to many girls accounted of unusual prettiness. Those who came by special bid of Arbuckle and his companions, and those who drifted in casually when word went round that "Fatty" was in town and holding jovial court in a hotel suite.

Virginia Rappe, most exquisite of them all, was among the first to arrive.

Seeking a Laugh

Then in the passing throng which, police say, numbered over thirty women, came in turn Mrs. M. Maud Belmont, Miss Rappe's companion, Zey Pyron-Prevost, Alice Blake, Dolly Clark, Betty Campbell and others, seeking a diverting hour and remaining long enough to witness what they have told police and grand jurors about. These five, at least, according to the prosecution's plan, must keep details of the Arbuckle party fresh in mind so that they may be able to rehearse it for the jury.

The prettiest party of women witnesses ever involved in a criminal case is the testimony of discriminating police speaking of the assemblage that came to be amused but departed without laughter.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatres' Own Press Agents.)

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Princess Radjah, the noted international dancer, is featuring the bill at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week, in "The Dance of Cleopatra," her own special production. It is weird and most decided novelty. Also she gives the Arabian night dance, which is wholly a novelty. Funmakers who are original and snappy are Raymond White and Marie Harriman, who picture "Before and After," a travesty on marriage. When there are Foley and Leture, positively as neat a singing and dancing pair as one will have occasion to run across in a long time. Their work is decidedly fetching. The remainder of the bill is good, including Cooper & Lane, colored singers who push their act along with pep. Helena Moratti, the little girl with the big voice; Cornell, Leona & Zippy, acrobats, and the Melnotte Duo, aerialists.

There is more good, genuine, wholesome fun in the three-act comedy, "Scrambled Wives," which is being presented this week by the new Lowell Players at the Opera House. Than is contained in any similar stage vehicle that local stock circles has provided local patrons in seasons. It's a riot of laughs and humorous situations from the rise of the curtain to the close of the last act. Miss Grace Scott and William D. Howard, who portray the principal roles, are the leaders in the fun-making, and they are ably assisted by the supporting cast. The stage settings and smoothness of the performance are deserving of the many good things being said of it. Next week, "Dangerous Love" will be the attraction.

Capacity crowds continue to attend the daily showing of Anna Sewall's famous horse picture, "Black Beauty," the Vitaphone special that is being featured the entire week at the Strand. It's a truly wonderful offering, and has a full measure of interest for the young and old alike. On Thursday night the management will give away absolutely free 12 Black Beauty dolls, the gift of the Vitaphone Co. Do on hand and note the number of your seat. It may mean that you will be one of the recipients of a doll.

"Man Trappers," the great story of the northwest mounted police, will be shown for the last time today, and for the remainder of the week, starting with Thursday matinee, Corinne Griffiths will be seen in her newest film creation, "Moral Fibre," an adaptation by Harrison Goadby. William B. Courtney cast is engaged in its interpretation. Throughout the early scenes of the play Miss Griffiths is seen in the role of a girl in her teens, and later as a young woman. She portrays both with the same marked ability and grace that has won her so many friends and admirers. In combination with the super-special, "Black Beauty," the bill should appeal to all.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Plan performances of "The Great Moment," featuring pretty Gloria Swanson, will be given at the Merrimack Square theatre this evening. Tomorrow the latter will be a complete change of program.

The big photoplay features, for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be Bebe Daniels in "One Wild Week" and Wanda Hawley in her most amusing comedy, "The House That Jazz Built."

"One Wild Week" shows a youthful heroism both before and after attaining her eighteenth birthday. Before that important date, she was dressed in gingham frocks of an 1890 model, and common-sense shoes. Not only was she denied pretty clothes by the waspish spinster who brought her up, but no fun nor friends were allowed.

Naturally, the girl, a spirited one, determines to "cut loose" the very day she attains her majority. She does. She buys herself all sorts of pretty clothes and sets off to visit a friend of her dead mother, in a nearby city. Things begin to happen on the train, and don't stop until the breezy heroine is up to assure her that he will get her released, she ties him up with a strap and effects her own release then and there, climbing the high stone wall and riding gallantly away in her would-be rescuer's own car.

The trials and tribulations of a modern Jack Spratt and his wife—or how to get fat and how to grow thin—furnish both fun and reflection in "The House That Jazz Built," the brilliant Wanda Hawley comedy showing the latter half of the week. The photoplay treats most humorously of a situation that is duplicated in many hundreds of homes every day. It is taken from a Sophie Kerr Saturday Evening Post story. The International News and a short comedy will complete the bill for the second part of the week.

AVERSION FOR ARBUCKLE

Will anybody ever again laugh at Arbuckle's antics? Never again!

There has rarely been an instance in which a popular idol was smashed more irreparably in a night than that of the movie actor, Arbuckle, now under indictment for the murder of Virginia Rappe as an episode of a night of drunken orgies.

Before that occurrence Arbuckle was enthroned in the hearts of the people as a movie funniest, and particularly as he was beloved by the children; but after the death of Miss Rappe he is looked upon as a monster and regarded with feelings of horror and aversion. He may be acquitted of the charge now held against him or, he may get off with a light sentence, but he can never be restored to public esteem; the people will never again laugh at his movie antics and it will be useless for him to attempt to retrieve his lost prestige. He will never be tolerated in the capacity in which he has furnished fun for the million.

Here, then, is a most striking transformation. It reminds one of Shakespeare's reflection on the death of Caesar: "But yesterday the word of Caesar might have stood before the world; now lies he there."

And none so poor to do him reverence.

But Arbuckle, by disregard of the moral law, brought about his own undoing. He has let the world know how base, how brutal and depraved he is. In the silence of his cell he can contemplate the irreparable consequences of a single crime, the effect upon his victim, his own disgrace and ruin and the scandal to the entire country.

Even if Fatty Arbuckle through some miscarriage of justice should escape condign punishment for the homicide of which he stands accused, he will everafter be despised and loathed to an extent that will compel him to go where he will not be recognized, to finish his miserable existence. Such is the inexorable punishment to which public condemnation consigns a man who while high in popular esteem has outraged womanhood and defaced his own manhood. Thus even though Arbuckle escapes judicial punishment, he can never escape the just sentence of public opinion by which he already stands convicted.

So far from laughing at any Arbuckle film hereafter, decent people will instantly rise in their places and leave the theatre where any such film is shown.

COTTON GROWERS

When President Harding promised to stand firmly against the combinations that endeavor to control congress from the outside, he probably had in mind the selfish policies shown by the southern cotton growers as expressed in the following from the New York Journal of Commerce:

"Experience and observation in the past have conclusively shown that a large part of the operations on cotton exchanges originate in the southern states and are the outgrowth of over-confidence on the part of the growing interests, and of speculators associated with them, that they know more about the future of the plant than anyone else."

"In this aspect of the case the pleas for preferential cotton finance, government assisted cotton exporting and government regulated and subsidized cotton plantings become absurd. The cotton interests are in exactly the same position as all others. They want the most they can obtain for their product, and are determined to get it. They would smile indeed were 'northern interests' to urge upon them the need of the workers in cities for cheap cotton clothing."

"Not only this, but they do not hesitate to recommend, and so far as possible practice, monopolistic tactics designed to advance prices, and they have no objection to speculation in cotton if it brings in a profit or raises values."

The president referred particularly to the agricultural interests, the farmers and others, including, no doubt, the cotton growers, who have been howling over the fall in the price of their staple. It should be understood that congress cannot favor one interest at the expense of another or of the vast majority of the people.

SOVIETISM FAILED IN CORK

An interesting experiment in Sovietism as applied to industry has just been wound up in the city of Cork, Ire. While designated "Sovietism," it was rather plain socialism than out and out bolshevism. It was entered upon during the troublous times in Cork, and a rapid Red or advance of Sovietism as it exists in Russia, organized a force sufficient to dispossess the owners of a bakery in which he was employed and to run the business on the co-operative plan except that the owners, the wicked capitalists, were to have no interest in connection with the new venture whatsoever.

There is no other country in the world perhaps so free from socialist tendencies as Ireland. Nevertheless, when the Soviet bakery began turning out the usual products, it was freely patronized by the people—the proprietors as the Soviet termed them—probably because there was no competing bakery, and hungry folks do not usually stand on ceremony as to where they will purchase their bread if they can get what they want close at hand.

Accordingly, the Soviet bakery seemed to be prospering so far as outward indications went; but when the profits came to be divided up on Saturday afternoon, the employees found that their envelopes contained less than they had received from the capitalist owners. Most of them had not imbibed the socialist tendencies of their Red proprietor, although they found his best bakers of local industrial deities as applied to the bakery.

SEEN AND HEARD

People who don't like Lowell might improve it by moving.

Some men start out into because they are single; others because they are married.

A gentleman bought a tag yesterday for 10 cents and leased it to office mates for five cents a trip to protect them when leaving the office. The day's close found him estimating a net raise of 40 cents. Who invented Tag day, anyhow?—Pillar and Post, in Chicago Tribune.

Hubby Was Clever

Flattened had arrived home late from the office and his wife was not the sort of woman to let a thing like that pass unnoticed. "Why didn't you catch the 7:30 train home tonight, Herbert?" she demanded. "Well, you see, dear," replied Herbert, "I asked a plumber from which platform my train started, and he said if I turned to the left I'd be right." "Well, didn't you?" "Unfortunately, no, dear," replied her husband. "A little mistake on my part. I turned to the right and was left!"

"Them That Hiss, Gitt"

In the list of jurors drawn yesterday by the municipal council appears the names of several prominent business men, who would undoubtedly much prefer not to serve. Others drawn include such names as: Persons who likewise would rather continue at their present employment. This brings up the question, whether it would be possible at this time, with so many men out of work, to have juror filled by unemployed. There are a great many men anxious to work who stand in positions, and who would be delighted to serve as jurors if given the opportunity.

To Save Talk

The proprietor of a barber shop in Fulton street believes it is a good thing for his business to have his patrons call each other by name. To this end he has had one of his 15 employees, who is handy at lettering, scroll the first name of each barber in soap on the mirror in front of each chair. When a patron enters he sees a row of names—"Tom," "Adam," "Anthony," "Rob," "James," on either side of the mirrored shop. Below each name is an arrow and a number. "It's like branding cattle," one barber remarked. "I am Sid and each morning I look into stall No. 2. The mess inside is a good idea. Makes the shop more homelike," he says.—New York Sun.

The Brain Has Paths

Scientific men, says Dr. W. E. Barton, have learned many things concerning the human brain, and they have much yet to learn. One of the things which they have come to know is that the brain has paths or patterns. The things we do habitually make a track in the structure of the brain. It is easy to do certain things next time because we have done it often before. In a certain sense, nothing done habitually is well done unless there is a consciousness of the effort of doing. A husband watches his wife sewing on buttons. "Why is it," he asks, "that when you sew on buttons, the needle strikes the hole, while with me it strikes the cotton?" She does not know. She watches to see why it is. And as soon as she begins to watch, she begins to hit the button. A great musician was asked why he continuously practiced. He said: "If I omit my practice for a day, I notice the result. If I omit it for a week, the critics notice it. If I omit it for a month, everyone notices it." No man ever becomes so perfect that he can afford to neglect his practice. If he lets it go, these paths in the mind are overgrown and when he begins he has to break his way. There are certain things that we need to do, and for the sake of doing them well, we need constant practice. We are doing something with our muscles when we practice, but we are treading paths in our minds. It is well for every man to learn what are the things which he is certain to need to do habitually, and skill himself in the doing of them. There is little danger that he will learn to do them too well. The paths of habit are not to be too well marked, and should run in the right direction. When we have made them and worn them deep, we shall not find it easy to avoid them.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The concrete walk in the Washington school yard is in deplorable condition. With this school now having a kindergarten room for the first time, an increased number of small children is attending the daily sessions. At recess time the children are obliged to play in the yard. With the walks in such poor and dangerous condition, accidents due to falls are inevitable. And again with the broken pieces of the walk before them some of the bigger children might engage in throwing missiles, causing injury to little tots. The condition of the walks is due to negligence as investigation brings the information that they were broken last spring and remained untouched except by the elements, during the vacation period. To date no serious accidents have been reported, but many youngsters have tripped over the exposed stones and fallen, sustaining slight bruises and scratches. It would seem that the walks should no longer be neglected and that those in charge will assume serious responsibility if they delay repair work until some child is seriously injured or maimed for life.

This will be a very poor season for canning, particularly on account of the shortage in the apple crop. For the past few years the war gardens cultivated by many of our citizens afforded a cheap supply of the common vegetables such as tomatoes, lettuce, celery, peas, beans, turnips and carrots. The amateur gardeners were more successful in raising good crops of tomatoes than in dealing with the other vegetables. Last year the price of sugar was much higher than at present so that this would be a favorable year for canning if apples and vegetables were not at so much. The price of sugar has been rather high, and the price is unusually high with a prospect that through the winter it will go much higher. Altogether, it appears that there is very little prospect of any reduction in the cost of living during the coming winter.

From my window I can see the tiny figure of a man perched on the top of very near the top of one of the giant chimneys of a local industrial plant, evidently making repairs on the lofty brick structure. Not only does his position seem a precarious one from where I sit, but I have been wondering if the continuous column of smoke swirling out of the chimney doesn't bother him enough to constitute an actual danger. Even at this distance, smoke seems to have plenty of coloring and density and must seem much more so when one actually gets within hailing distance of it. A frail staging has been built around the summit of the chimney, wide enough, I suppose, to provide a working platform for the individual whose job it is to make whatever repairs are necessary. It's a job that I shouldn't like even at a very substantial remuneration each week.

"Goldie" is a rare Missouri cow. She gives 9300 pounds of milk and 326 pounds of butter fat a year. That nets her owner a profit of $267 annually, after paying for her feed. Yet Goldie is an old cow. And she always has been crippled. Age and handicaps don't necessarily prevent making a record.

SIX AUTOS IN CRASH AT WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Sept. 21.—Fred Maters, Jr., son of Fred Maters of 16 Talbot street, Worcester, was slightly hurt on the nose by flying glass from the windshield of his father's automobile in Shrewsbury street, yesterday afternoon, in a six-car pile-up. He was the only person who suffered any injury in the tangle, in which six cars were more or less damaged. All the machines were running in "close order" toward the lake.

The first in line was driven by William D. Rice of Shrewsbury, and this machine was stopped suddenly without any signal, according to Charles H. Howard of Northampton, who was following. Howard's car piled into Rice's machine, and his wife the machine of Robert J. Best of Philadelphia crashed into the Howard car. An auto with a Maine registration, smashed into the Best car, and the car of Robert J. Antin of Somerville ran into the Maine car, and then came the Maters car, bringing up the tail of the wrecked sextet.

The cars were piled apart and all, except the Maine machine, were driven to police headquarters where the Maters boy was treated by Police Surgeon Northbridge. After making their reports, all the cars except Rice's continued their trip to Boston. Rice stopped in Shrewsbury.

DIED SUDDENLY

Miss Davison Was Adviser to Ex-Pres. Wilson

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 21.—Miss Edna Scott Davison, 57, scholar, author, native of Louisville, Ky., and living in Cambridge, Mass., the news was received here in a hotel yesterday, that she died of a cerebral hemorrhage. She was a Wellesley graduate and the devotee of P.H.D. from Columbia, was writing a textbook on history and at one time was a confidential adviser of ex-President Wilson, associated with Col. E. M. House in a wartime commission.

She was accompanied here by her sister, Mrs. William Barker of Louisville, and was on her way to a vacation resort, for benefit of her health.

Berton Braloy's Daily Poem A PARTING

In summer weather
We've been together,
I wonder whether
We'll meet once more;
We've gone the paces
At mountain places
And sandy spaces
Along the shore.

When moonlight shimmered
And bright eyes glimmered,
And my heart shimmered
With fancies rare,
When rough glances
Desought advances
And brought romances—
Well, you were there.

On city highways
And country byways
Your ways were my ways
And you held true;
By you attended
My days were splendid
But, summer's ended,
Goodby to you!

And shall we sever
Perhaps forever?
No, I endeavor
To sidestep that;
I'll block and clean you
And on my brawn, you
Shall sit next summer
As you have sat;
And those who've seen you
Will gaze thereat
And say, "A handsome Boy when I show you
They'll never know you,
My old straw hat!"

ARE REAPING HARVEST

License Commissioner McGrath Says Druggists Charge Too Much

"Druggists of this city are reaping a harvest in whiskey sales for prescription purposes and it is high time a stop was put to it," said Commissioner Joseph D. McGrath at a meeting of the license commission last night. The speaker told the other members of the board that many complaints are being made against the exorbitant prices for sick persons who must obtain whiskey through a doctor's prescription.

McGrath stated that druggists retail bonded whiskey at $3 a pint after they have purchased it at $6 a gallon. "They do not take into consideration," he went on, "that the patient must pay $2 for a prescription and must renew the prescription every ten days."

To curb this practice Commissioner McGrath suggested that whiskey for medical purposes be handled from a city dispensary, only the necessary freight expense to be added to the cost of the liquor in the sale price charged the patient. The federal authorities would also be enabled to keep a closer watch on the liquor traffic, declared Mr. McGrath.

Minor Permits Granted

The following are the minor permits granted by the board:

Third class liquor licenses to druggists, Austin A. Frye of the firm of Frye & Crawford, 474 Merrimack st., and Fred A. Howard, 137 Central st., including house, Henry S. Metting, 12 Tyler street, express, Stanislaus J. Juski, 63 Coburn street and John E. Murtagh, 233 Fayette street; hawkers and peddlers, John E. ## LEDoux AND N. Y. POLICE

IN "COMPROMISE"

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Urbain Ledoux, whose activities in behalf of New York's unemployed have been combatted by the police, announced early today that he and the police had arrived at a "compromise." He has promised, he said, to abandon plans for holding a "modern slave auction" here, and the police have agreed to aid his efforts to feed the jobless.

Carrying out the terms of the compromise, Ledoux appeared in Bryant Park this morning with a police escort and began distribution of tickets good for breakfasts in nearby restaurants. He announced he would open a bread kitchen at St. Mark's in the Bowery on Monday. Lodging also will be provided and an employment bureau operated, he said.

HUGE EXCHANGE FRAUD

Many Prominent Persons in Portugal Have Been Arrested

LISBON, Sept. 21.—Many prominent persons in Portugal have been arrested in connection with the huge exchange fraud which was exposed last month. Count de Castro Guimaraes and Alves Diniz, respectively directors of the Lisbon and Azores bank and the Marcelline International Limited, were taken into custody yesterday and it is expected that others of equal prominence will be arrested.

Investigations show that Dr. Alfonso d'Acosta, former premier and minister of finance, was approached by representatives of the "Credit International organization" of Antwerp who offered a credit of $50,000,000 for supplying American products, especially wheat and coal, to Portugal. Senator d'Acosta was authorized by the government to negotiate with the organization which was understood to represent American capitalists.

Immediately the exchange rate rose 50 per cent, but later dropped back to its former low point, and inquiries in Washington showed that the Antwerp organization had no connections in the United States.

STOLE AUTO NUMBER PLATES HERE

Hoping to connect Henry Blair, aged 28, of Nashua, arrested for automobile larceny in that city Monday night, with recent auto thefts in this city, Captain Atkinson of the Lowell police went to the New Hampshire city yesterday and recovered a set of number plates stolen from the garage of Frank X. Lapointe, at 35 Ottawa street a short time ago. The machine Blair is charged with having stolen does not answer the description of cars taken from this city. Blair admitted stealing the car in Hartford, driving it to Lowell where he stole Mr. Lapointe's number plates, substituted them for the ones he had on the auto and drove back to Nashua where he was taken. He said he threw the Connecticut number plates into the Merrimack river.

Former Lowell Man Appointed Deputy Public Printer

John Greene, a former well known Lowell printer, has been appointed deputy public printer in Washington, the second highest position in the government printing office. Mr. Greene was born in New Jersey but came here at a child. Under the direction of F. X. A. Hurlbush, now of the Sun composing room, Mr. Greene served an apprenticeship in the book and job printing plant of the Hurlbush and Mr. Hurlbush says that even at that time he was an excellent workman. Later Mr. Greene went to the Morning Times and in 1912 was appointed a compositor in the government printing office where he has been rapidly promoted.

CONGRESS OPENS BUSY SESSION

Reconvenes at Noon Today
After a Recess Which Began August 24

Peace Treaties, Tax Revision, and Other Important Measures on Calendar

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Congress reconvened at noon today after a recess which began Aug. 24. Under a gentleman's agreement in the house, however, that body is to begin immediately a series of three day recesses until Oct. 1, while the senate goes ahead at full speed on tax revision, the ratification of peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary, and with a number of other important measures, including the anti-trust, railroad debt funding, allied debt refunding and Panama canal tolls bills.

Presentation to the senate of the peace treaties and possibly of the revenue bill, was expected to be the principal events today although there was a possibility that only a perfunctory session would be held. The tax measure was to be reported out by the finance committee and the peace treaties were to be transmitted with a brief note by President Harding.

Indications were that both the revenue bill and the peace treaties might be considered virtually simultaneously when taken up. Speedy progress is expected with the former, but a hard fight is said to be in prospect against the treaties by Senator Borah of Idaho, and a few other republicans and some democrats, because of their opposition to what they consider European entanglements.

Because of the enforced absence beginning in November, of Senator Cummins, it is expected that actual leadership may devolve during that period on the republican whip in the senate.

Senator Curtis of Kansas, vice chairman of the republican conference, has been elected president pro tempore of the senate in case Senator Cummins, of Iowa, who now holds that office, should desire to relinquish it because of ill health. In such an event it is expected that Senator Watson of Indiana will succeed Mr. Curtis as republican whip.

TAX REVISION BILL RETURNED TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The 1921 tax revision bill, regarded by republicans and democrats alike as one of the most important pieces of legislation to come before this congress was to be returned today to the senate from the finance committee which has spent three weeks in amending many of the provisions agreed upon by the house.

The majority report on the bill had not been completed today. Chairman Penrose hopes to be able to present it tomorrow or Friday and then urge early consideration of the measure with a view to its final enactment before the end of October.

A lively fight in the senate is promised. The democrats plan not only to make a minority report on the bill, but to attack it vigorously from the floor. They count upon support in part of their fight, at least, from Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, and some other members on the republican side.

CONVENTION OF MINE WORKERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 21.—Completion of the reading today of reports by international officers at the convention of the United Mine Workers of America, placed many recommendations before the delegates for consideration. Formal discussion, however, was not expected until late in the day and possibly not until tomorrow.

The reports served to bring the wage question to the front in importance.

Work also was begun today by the resolutions committee to which more than 600 resolutions, adopted by local unions throughout the country, had been presented.

INTERNATIONAL COURT

Judges and Deputy Judges
Elected Have Accepted,
Says Geneva

GENEVA, Sept. 21.—(By the Associated Press)—All judges and deputy judges elected to the international court of justice have accepted, it was announced to the assembly of the League of Nations here today by Pres. Van Karnebeck. Therefore, he declared, the court was regarded as finally constituted.

The president said everything was being done to make it possible for the court to function at the earliest possible moment.

The question of Armenia, one of the most familiar subjects on the agenda of the assembly, was taken up at the opening of today's session, the particular phase considered being a report on the solution recently proposed asking the powers to insert in the eventual treaty of peace between the Greeks and the Turks, a clause assuring a "national home" to the Armenians.

Lord Robert Cecil, representing the union of South Africa, in explaining the report, said nothing could be done now "with the Kemalists in rebellion against the whole world" but that the league must be ready to see that when the time came for a settlement the Armenians be given a home entirely independent of Turkish rule.

Delegate Seferides of Greece said the assembly's "placative declarations of sympathy with Armenia" were followed last year by more massacres. "If the assembly wants to act," he cried, "let it act, but include in its more placative resolutions, if more massacres occur, the blood will stain this assembly itself."

THRILLING RESCUE OF BALLOONISTS AT SEA

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 21.—(By the Associated Press)—Bernard von Hoffman and J. G. McKibben, competitors in the James Gordon Bennett trophy balloon race, arrived in Liverpool last night with a thrilling story of how their balloon, the City of St. Louis, fell into the Irish sea Monday evening, and of their rescue by a passing vessel.

Von Hoffman was the pilot of the balloon and Mr. McKibben the passenger. They said that at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon they were over the water within five miles of the Irish coast, but that owing to the fall of wind they were unable to land and therefore drifted northward with only four bags of ballast left. An hour later they sighted two ships, but failed to obtain assistance from either of them.

"Then," said Von Hoffman, "with only two bags of ballast remaining, we found ourselves in a very serious predicament. We cut away our drag rope in pieces, and also disposed of our spare clothing and instruments. Then we slowly sank toward the water."

"Our case seemed hopeless, but at 9:45 o'clock in the evening we sighted another vessel. We immediately dropped overboard a Holmes light, and seeing it was our only chance, we bowed the balloon down to the waves."

"The captain of the ship lowered a boat, but when we reached the sea McKibben was struck on the head by a lead ring and knocked off the basket and into the water."

"Relieved of his weight the balloon shot upward like a rocket, carrying me with it. I had an opportunity to rip open the gas envelope and take a sporting chance."

"I descended safely into the sea and was picked up with McKibben. We then were taken to the Haysham, four miles southwest of Lancaster."

"Our position when we were picked up was about 15 miles off Dublin, and I think the Swiss balloon which we previously had seen should have been carried somewhere in the same vicinity."

URGES FOOD BE RUSHED TO RUSSIA

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, who is in Moscow, has called the union headquarters here to rush shipments of foodstuffs for the relief of Russian famine sufferers.

He arrived at the Bolshevik capital several days ago with funds for relief work contributed by his organization and in a cablegram given out today suggested the purchase of $200,000 worth of wheat flour and its shipment by the quickest possible route.

SHEPPARD-TOWNER BILL

Dr. Maguire Makes Plea For Maternity Legislation at Conference

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 21.—A plea for the Sheppard-Towner bill or other maternity legislation likely to come before congress was made yesterday by Dr. Walter G. Maguire of Chicago, in an address at the seventh national conference, Catholic Charities in session here.

"It is only through education, state control, special inspection and careful supervision of all maternity matters that we can hope to economize lives in this country," said Dr. Maguire. "Twenty thousand mothers die annually and over 250,000 children each year because of the lack of proper care given to the women at child birth."

The work of the National Council of Catholic Women will include next year, the maintenance in all conferences concerned with the discussion of moral, social and industrial questions, according to the report of Miss Agnes Regan, executive secretary of the council, of Washington, D. C., which was read by Dr. Anne Nicholson.

Two hundred nuns are attending the conference which closes Friday on Friday and Saturday may they hold a convention of their own to discuss their institutional problems.

SAW MISSING BRIDE IN BOSTON, HE BELIEVES

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—William McLaughlin, a disabled veteran of the world war, who lives with his family at 16 Wall street, Charlestown, stated in an interview last evening that a young woman he saw on North Washington street, near Causeway street, this city, bears a striking resemblance to Mrs. Norah Johnson Kettelle, who mysteriously disappeared from a camp in Connecticut, while on her honeymoon.

Mr. McLaughlin said that Mrs. Kettelle's disappearance has been the subject of discussion in his household ever since Friday morning he saw a picture of the young woman in a morning paper. As he was walking to Boston at 11:20 that morning he saw a young woman leaning on the arm of a young man, just beyond Endicott and Causeway streets, on North Washington street, not far from a chocolate factory.

"The young woman bore a striking resemblance to the missing bride," said Mr. McLaughlin. "She wore a round turned-up hat, not very large and of brownish material; a neat tailored suit of brownish material with one of her hands in the back of her skirt, which came down to just above her ankles; black stockings and low cut brown shoes. I feel sure she is the missing woman."

The Boston police have been notified of McLaughlin's story and are making investigations. The police are also being notified to seek a young woman answering the description provided by Mr. McLaughlin.

FEATURES OF THE ARMS
PARLEY AGENDA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(By the Associated Press).—The tentative agenda that the United States has transmitted to the principal powers who will participate in the conference on limitation of armament and Pacific and far eastern questions suggests on broad lines subjects for consideration. Foreign offices to which it has been sent have been informed that it is essentially suggestive and subject to amendment or additions. An outline of the agenda follows:

1.—Limitation of armament.
2.—Bases of limitation. Extent of limitation. Fulfillment of conditions.
3.—Status for control of new agencies of warfare.
4.—Limitation of land armament.
5.—Pacific and Far Eastern Questions

1.—Questions relating to China.
2.—Application to subjects.
A. Territorial integrity.
B. Administrative integrity.
C. Open door.
D. Equality of administrative and industrial opportunities.
E. Development of railways.
F. Preferential railroad rates.
G. Status of existing commitments.
H. Questions relating to Siberia.
I. Similar questions relating to China.
J. Mandated islands.

Folks Laugh at Corns Now

Millions Have Proved Them Needless. They Stop Them by a Touch

Do you know that one method is now ending corns for millions of people? People all around you employ it. They never let a corn pain twice.

The method is Blue-jay—the liquid or the plaster. It is made by a surgical dressing house of world-wide repute. A touch applies it, and the pain stops instantly. Soon the whole corn loosens and comes out.

The way is gentle, scientific, sure. Once you know it, you will laugh at corns.

Get Blue-jay now—apply it tonight. Watch the effect on one corn. Get Blue-jay at your druggist's.

PREMIER MEIGHEN FORMS UNIONIST CABINET

OTTAWA, Sept. 21.—Premier Meighen today reorganized his Unionist cabinet with a view to strengthening it for the approaching general election. Eleven new members and 10 retained from the previous ministry took the oath of office before Governor General Byng. Among those who retired is C. J. Doherty, who was minister of justice and is now a delegate to the assembly of the League of Nations meeting at Geneva. Premier Meighen announced that he would probably appoint him to some other office.

Mr. Meighen continues as prime minister and minister of external affairs. The new members are:

Railways and canals—J. A. Stewart, Lanark.
Trade and commerce—H. H. Stevens, Vancouver.
Justice—R. B. Bennett, Calgary.
Postmaster-general—L. G. Belsey, Quebec.
Secretary of state—Rodolphe Mealy, Montreal.

Health, immigration and colonization—Dr. J. W. Edwards, Frontenac.
Soldiers and civil re-establishment—R. J. Manion, Fort William.
Customs and excise—J. B. M. Baxter, St. John, N. B.
President of the privy council—Dr. L. G. Normand, Three Rivers.

Without portfolio—James Wilson, Saskatoon, and Edmund Bristol, Toronto.

The following incumbents are retained:

Public works—F. B. McDurdy.
Finance—Sir Henry Dwyer.
Agriculture—S. F. Tolmie.
Labor—G. D. Robertson.
Marine and naval—C. C. Ballantyne.
Interior—Sir James Loughheed.
Militia and defense—Hugh Guthrie.
Without portfolio—E. K. Spinyne and Sir Edward Cornhill.

The portfolio of solicitor-general will be filled later.

J. D. Reid, retiring minister of railway and canal, and Sir George Foster, retiring minister of trade and commerce, are slated for appointment to the senate and R. G. Wigney, retiring minister of customs and excise, for another appointment. P. E. Bonfield, retiring postmaster-general, is already a member of the senate. It is believed Mr. Doherty will receive a judicial appointment. An announcement as to when parliament will dissolve and a general election will be held is expected tomorrow.

PENROSE CANDIDATES BEATEN IN PENN.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—Majorities of between 60,000 and 75,000 were rolled up in yesterday's primary election by the group of candidates for county offices supported by the regular republican organization, headed by State Senator E. H. Vane, over those backed by the voters' league, an independent organization, whose candidates were endorsed in public statements by United States Senator Penrose.

The question of holding a convention to revise the state constitution was still in doubt early today. Thomas S. Crago, republican of Greene county, was elected a congressman-at-large from the city council of Columbia, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mahlon M. Garland.

"Any man," said Mr. McGinley, "who states that the K. of C. is unpatriotic and un-American must have been consulting Rip Van Winkle during the war. To base a demand for investigation on the bogus oath attributed to the K. of C. indicates the intelligence of the men voting for it."

World Series Fame; Heroes Get Some of It, But Those Who Pull Boners Become Famous

SNODGRASS MUFFED A FLY THAT GAVE BOSTON A WORLD SERIES

MERKLE'S FIRST BONE KEPT THE GIANTS OUT OF A SERIES—AND HIS SECOND LOST A WORLD SERIES

BY ROY GROVE

Whaddya mean fame in a world series?

Homerun Baker's feat?

"Big Sly" Mathewson?

Elmer Smith's home run with the bases full?

Pool! Pool! Be yourself, man.

Why don't you talk about somebody with some real world series fame?

Somebody who really gets talked about?

Merkle, Snodgrass, Faber, Zimmerman and Plack; the boys who really did something?

There's no doubt but that Fred Merkle did his share. He all but fouled Washington and Lincoln out of the hall, when old man Plack checked him up with two of the most costly errors in the history of baseball.

The first kept the Giants out of a world series; the second lost one for the same team.

Near the close of the season of 1903, the Giants and Cubs were battling for the pennant in the ninth game.

The score was tie, McCormick was on third and Merkle occupied first.

Bridwell sent the ball far into the outfield and McCormick eased over the plate.

Merkle started for second, but seeing McCormick score, he stopped and started for the clubhouse, thinking the game was over.

Ever seeing Fred had failed to catch the ball, he called to the ball in, called to the umpire, and lunched second with the ball.

The umpire called Merkle out, and crossed out McCormick's run.

The tie was played out later and the Cubs won the pennant.

Four years later Merkle, still with the Giants, met Boston in a world series.

Each of the four games, each game, one being a tie.

The Giants were leading in the 10th inning. Speaker lifted a foul over the first sack.

Merkle watched the ball float over his head, making no effort to catch it.

Myers nearly broke his neck to get it—but was too late.

Speaker then singled, scoring a run.

And tying the score.

Later the Sox stepped in with the winning number.

"Red" Faber's misplay in the 1917 White Sox-Giants series was a classic.

"Red" smeared one for a single and stretched it for a double, the man going to third.

"Red" stood there excited, watched the pitcher wind up. Then it occurred to him that the smart thing to do was to steal.

He did. Tearing down to third, he slid into the sack, jumped up, dusted himself off and looked up into the eyes of one of his fellow runners, still camped on third.

"Out!" said the ump, and old man Fate pulled out tape for measurements in Goodson.

Snodgrass is probably the most popular of them all.

It was Snodgrass's hard luck play that cost the Giants the world series of 1915.

The series went the limit, and as one of the previous games had been a tie, it was necessary to play an extra game.

The Giants had the game clinched in the first half of the 10th.

Snodgrass muffed.

Engle's easy fly, putting Engle half way around Merkle's fizzle of speaker's foul followed. Tris then singled, sending in Engle with the tying run, while Yerkes, who had walked, followed a minute later with the run that won the game and series.

Plack's error gave the Red Sox the series again in 1918. It was the same sort of a miff that Snodgrass pulled, and it cost the Cubs two runs, giving the Sox a lead which Chicago was unable to overcome.

Heinie Zimmerman is in good standing in the first club. Heinie's boner came in the last game of the 1917 world series between the Giants and White Sox.

With the bases full of White Sox, Pitcher Benton flagged Felch's weak grounder and ran to the third base line to drive Eddie Collins back to third. Eventually he threw to Heinie, stationed on the hot corner. Meantime Catcher Barilek had also run out toward third. Heinie foolishly ran back toward home, and too late, found there was no one there to take his throw. Fleet-footed Eddie and slow-moving Heinie then ran a foot race to the plate, Heinie finishing so far in the rear that it was ludicrous.

Engle's easy fly, putting Engle half way around Merkle's fizzle of speaker's foul followed. Tris then singled, sending in Engle with the tying run, while Yerkes, who had walked, followed a minute later with the run that won the game and series.

Fleet-footed Eddie and slow-moving Heinie then ran a foot race to the plate, Heinie finishing so far in the rear that it was ludicrous.

Engle's easy fly, putting Engle half way around Merkle's fizzle of speaker's foul followed. Tris then singled, sending in Engle with the tying run, while Yerkes, who had walked, followed a minute later with the run that won the game and series.

Plack's error gave the Red Sox the series again in 1918. It was the same sort of a miff that Snodgrass pulled, and it cost the Cubs two runs, giving the Sox a lead which Chicago was unable to overcome.

With the bases full of White Sox, Pitcher Benton flagged Felch's weak grounder and ran to the third base line to drive Eddie Collins back to third. Eventually he threw to Heinie, stationed on the hot corner. Meantime Catcher Barilek had also run out toward third. Heinie foolishly ran back toward home, and too late, found there was no one there to take his throw. ## POLICE HEAD ADMITS ACCEPTING MONEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, yesterday admitted on the witness stand before the legislative committee inquiring into the city administration that he had received a gift of $12,053 from Allan A. Ryan, financier, whom he had appointed a deputy police commissioner.

A check made out by Allan A. Ryan & Co. to Commissioner Enright for $12,053.29 was produced as well as a ledger sheet showing that the Ryan concern on April 17, 1919, had engineered a stock transaction, returning that amount. The company had credited Enright with several thousand shares of an oil stock and with the rise in the market a few days later, the stock was sold and he was presented the check.

The commissioner said the check was received after he had appointed Mr. Ryan a deputy commissioner. Enright's admission came at the conclusion of his testimony regarding the gift of an automobile from Deputy Police Commissioner John A. Harris. He said that he did not know whether he would keep the machine, but that it had been placed at his disposal by Mr. Harris.

The commissioner was also questioned regarding his friendship with Harris and his suspension of a sergeant for failure to recognize the deputy commissioner's badge.

WANT FINANCIER ON SHIPPING BOARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Conferences with several leading bankers, in an effort to obtain for the shipping board the services of a recognized financier to act as its financial vice president, were held yesterday by Chairman Albert D. Lasker. A number of men were under consideration, Mr. Lasker said, but no decision was reached. The chairman and his assistants also conferred with the managing operators of the United States line, now handling the passenger ships taken over from the United States mail lines. The operators, Mr. Lasker said, would meet with the shipping board at Washington next Friday when the question of disposal of the ships, or their continued operation, would be brought up.

EVELYN NESBIT HALTS ATTEMPT TO EVICT HER

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Evelyn Nesbit, a central figure in the celebrated Thaw case, successfully forestalled city marshals who attempted to evict her yesterday from her tea room in West 52d street for non-payment of rent and then treated a large crowd of Broadway habitués who witnessed the proceedings to ice cream and coffee.

A dispossession warrant was issued on application of the Trebush Realty company controlled by the Shubert theatrical interests. When the marshals appeared the former actress begged them not to disturb patrons then at their meal.

While the marshals waited, Miss Nesbit, hatless and coatless fled in a taxicab to the Shubert offices. She returned triumphant, having obtained a stay until next Saturday, as well as a roll of bills of large denominations which she waved in the direction of her diners, who crowded about to offer congratulations. The crowd outside was then invited to come in for some ice cream as her guests.

COAL MINERS FIGHT WAGE CUTS

Pres. Lewis Tells Delegates Wage Reductions Must Not Be Permitted

Declare All Resources of Union Must Be Available to Back Up Policy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 20.—No wage reduction of coal miners must be permitted and all resources of the miners' union must be made available to back up the policy in opposition to wage cuts, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared here today, in his report made at the opening of the biennial convention of the international union.

He also recommended a postponement until next February of the miners' adoption of definite wage demands and declared that with all wage agreements expiring on March 31, 1922, the full influence and economic power of our great union may thus be utilized to the advantage of our people for the achievement of our ideals.

Would Revoke Two Officers

Much of Mr. Lewis' 40,000 word report related to the wage question, apparently indicating that this would be among the most important business of the convention which brought together between 1500 and 1600 representatives of local unions scattered throughout the United States, western Canada and Nova Scotia. Aside from the wage question, Mr. Lewis asked the convention to administer a rebuke to Robert H. Harlin of Seattle, Wash., and Frank H. Farnington, president of the Illinois miners, who Lewis charged, had circulated false statements about the union. He also asked the convention to order the expulsion of the board, which he said, Alexander Howat, president of the Kansas miners, had defined in not complying with the board's order for strikers to return to work.

Favors Nationalization of Mines

Other essential points of Mr. Lewis' report included a recommendation that the convention reaffirm its declaration of two years ago favoring nationalization of coal mines. A declaration that the fight in wage reductions must be won, and a recommendation that legal proceedings be instituted to make a full test of the constitutionality of the Kansas industrial court law.

In discussing the wage question, Mr. Lewis said coal operators in several states had filed demands for reductions, but that the union's position was uncompromisingly for carrying out the present agreement which, he said, was predicated on the award of the bituminous coal commission, now under governmental authority.

"Coal can be produced under the present wage scale at a labor cost that corresponds favorably with production costs of other essential commodities," Lewis said.

Refer Question to Senate Committee

In recommending that the wage question be referred to a senate committee, Mr. Lewis proposed that the convention reconvene next February to receive the committee's report and decide on demands. His recommendation was regarded as applicable to the anthracite miners who have separate negotiations with the nationalization of the mines and the test of the Kansas industrial court law, he recommended that the convention name a committee of three for further study of government ownership of the mines, after reaffirming the 1918 declaration in favor of nationalization. Mr. Lewis also said it was "extremely doubtful" whether the public would at present be willing to bear more taxes to be used by the federal government in acquiring title to the coal lands.

In a long review of the West Virginia situation, Mr. Lewis expressed hope that the senate investigating committee would hasten its report, lacking the horrors of that field and in paving the way for recognition of the rights of the mine workers who desire to become members of the United Mine Workers.

Referring to the differences between international and subordinate officers of the union, Harlin and Farnington were said by Lewis to be "scheming politicians."

INVESTIGATE ACCIDENT IN SO. BILLERICA

An investigation to determine what caused the explosion of the corn cutting machine on Belknap's farm, South Billerica, yesterday, which resulted in the instant death of Harold P. Lloyd, 25, a student and ex-service man, of 57 Hinckley street, Somerville, was started today.

Two other young men, Nathaniel Lowe of South Billerica and Richard Rousay of Medford, who were helping Lloyd prepare the corn cutter for operation, were severely injured by iron fragments of the machine that were sent flying through the air at bullet velocity.

The three men had come to the farm to assist the owner in cutting some corn he was anxious to get ready this week. The cutter had been placed in position, with a farm tractor motor furnishing it power. A few minutes after it had started it suddenly exploded, sending pieces of the heavy iron flying through the barn where it had been installed. Lloyd was found dead, his face and head badly smashed by iron pieces.

Lowe and Rousay sustained cuts about the face and arms and after receiving treatment from Dr. E. J. Alley of Billerica were allowed to go to their homes.

Lloyd's body was removed to the undertaking rooms of William H. Saunders on Appleton street. It was announced that Medical Examiner Thomas B. Smith would release the body this noon after which it was to be removed to the Somerville home of the youth's parents.

NEITHER LLOYD GEORGE NOR CURZON COMING

LONDON, Sept. 20 (By the Associated Press).—It has been definitely decided that neither Mr. Lloyd George, premier, nor Lord Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, will attend the Washington conference on disarmament and Pacific problems, in view of impending developments in domestic politics. It was learned this afternoon.

A lifeboat made of basket work has been invented by a Rotterdam man.

BIG INCREASE NOTED

Public School Attendance for First Week Exceeds 1920 Figure by 400

An increase of 418 pupils in the first week attendance in the Lowell public schools is noted by the figures announced by the school department today for 1921 as compared with 1920. The complete enrollment in the schools this year is 12,321, while last year the total for the first week was 11,903. There have been increases at the high school and in the grammar schools. The primary schools have shown a considerable drop owing to the introduction of the junior high school system and the consequent requirement that children must be older than formerly to enter the primary schools.

This year there are 2001 students at the high school. Last year there were 1570. This year there are 6001 pupils in the grammar schools as against 5509 last year. The primary schools have 3831 children this year, but last year had 3941. The kindergarten attendance remains about the same—442 this year and 453 last year. This year's registration by schools is as follows:

BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT WIRE DESPATCHES

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Plans have been completed for re-establishment of the Austrian mercantile marine service with American and German assistance, says an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Berlin today.

MADRID, Sept. 20.—Complete calm has been restored in western Morocco. It is reported in a despatch from El Arach today.

GENEVA, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press).—Gilbert Murray, representing Australia, introduced a resolution in the Assembly of the League of Nations today, providing that the boundaries of Armenia be defined.

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Earnest E. Smith and Nathaniel W. Smith, members of the bankrupt stock brokerage firm of Earnest E. Smith & Co., pleaded not guilty today to indictments charging larceny of stock certificates from Miss Emma Buttrick of Lowell. They were held in $5000 bonds each for trial.

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 20.—Announcement was made today of a wage reduction by the Strathmore Paper Co., averaging between 10 and 15 per cent. Seven hundred employees at the Strathmore and Woronoco plants of the company are affected.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The American Smelting and Refining Co. today advanced the price of lead from 4.99 to 4.55 a pound.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press).—Parliament was opened by Gustav Wilhelm today, amidst scenes of disorder. A demonstration was carried out in the street before the parliament building for the purpose of obtaining the release of a non-naturalized Lithuanian, imprisoned for refusing to perform military service.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 20.—The North American chamber of commerce here made public today a resolution it had adopted declaring that vessels which have been enlisted in the United States, and which, as well as regarding enormous amounts of property of North American merchants in the customs houses at Rio de Janeiro and other Brazilian ports were "badly exaggerated."

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 20.—Three men, whose total production was 32 sticks, have found it expensive to manufacture wire. Each was fined $250 in the superior court today.

FREE MAN ON HEARING OF WIFE'S DEATH

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Max Hiamovitz of Springfield, under arrest charged with forgery of a United States treasury check for $700, was released on his personal recognizance today when the federal court learned that his wife had died in a Springfield hospital. A hearing on the question of removal to Washington, where the indictment was returned in August, 1920, was continued indefinitely and court officials contributed enough money to pay the man's fare home. Because he was still suffering from the effects of shell shock, he was not told of his wife's death.

MINISTER TO DENMARK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Dr. J. D. Prince, a language professor at Columbia university and president of the state civil service commission of New Jersey has been selected by President Harding as minister to Denmark.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Sept. 20.—The united association of plumbers and allied trades, in convention here, unanimously adopted resolutions today, favoring an international eight-hour day in their affiliated industries, with a half holiday on Saturday.

To Cut Rates On Vegetables

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Decision of the transcontinental railroads to reduce rates on vegetables from California and other Pacific coast territory points to the territory between the Rocky Mountains and Chicago and the Mississippi river was announced today by the Interstate Commerce commission. The reductions will substitute a 15 per cent increase over the rates in effect Aug. 25, 1920, for the 33 1-3 per cent increase which went into effect Aug. 20, 1920, "thus removing more than half of the increase made at that time," the commission said.

Great Britain Warns Russia

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press).—The British government today despatched a strongly worded note to Moscow calling the attention of the soviet government to alleged serious breaches of faith involved in the pursuance by the Russians throughout Central Asia and Afghanistan of a campaign of intrigues hostile to Great Britain. An explanation is demanded.

Husband Threatened to Cut Heart Out

WORCESTER, Sept. 20.—After Mrs. Ida May Austin of Leominster had testified that her husband had threatened to cut her heart out and carry it around on a big stick, and her daughter had sworn that her father had forced her to turn the grindstone to sharpen the knife he was to use on her mother, Judge O'Connell in divorce court today granted Mrs. Austin's petition for a divorce.

To Be Tried for Murder of Wealthy Bride

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 20.—James E. Mahoney, 35, will be tried in superior court today on a charge of murder, in connection with the disappearance of his wealthy 67-year-old bride, April 16, and the recovery of the mutilated body of an elderly woman from a trunk in Lake Union here Aug. 8.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Secretary Weeks refused today to make any comment on published reports that Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, had submitted his resignation from that post following the action of Major General Menoher, chief of the service in having asked to be relieved from duty with the air service. The war secretary indicated that the whole situation relative to the air service was still unsettled.

There appeared to be reason to believe that General Mitchell was prepared to step aside should war department officials feel that a change in his post was desirable.

SOLD TO ATHLETICS

Scheer Demands Part of the Purchase Money

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 20.—Heine Scheer, second baseman of the Hartford club of the Eastern league, who has been sold to the Philadelphia Athletics, left for his home in New York last night, and in departing he is said to have declared he wanted a part of the purchase money before reporting to Connie Mack. The latter had asked James H. Clark, owner of the Hartford team, to let him have Scheer a week before the Eastern league closed. The player was released after Sunday's game.

President O'Neil of the Eastern league has protested to John J. Farrell, secretary-treasurer of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, against the St. Louis Americans playing a semi-professional team at Manchester, Conn., next Sunday. The ground of protest is that the game would infringe on the territorial rights of the Eastern league.

largely of isolated complaints which had come in from numerous sources including private individuals and or-

ROOM 220, 45 MERRIMACK ST.Announced Today That B. & M. Car Shops Soon to Resume Full Time Operation

The announcement made this morning by officials of the Boston &amp; Maine car shops in Billerica, that the shops, instead of closing every third week as has been the case for some time, would resume full time operation in the very near future, will be good news for short-time operatives and others who have been out of employment since the beginning of the curtailment period. The number of names on the payroll at the present time, it was stated today, is about 1500. That is considerably below normal, but this number will be greatly increased by the resumption of full time operations, and old hands will, in every instance, be given preference.

The plan of closing every third week went into effect last spring and was continued all summer, this action being taken by the road officials, it is said, in an endeavor to reduce expenses. On top of the curtailment several hundred men were laid off. Some of them, however, were occasionally given work for three and sometimes four days in one week. There is plenty of work at the big plant and it is expected that within a short time business will be booming there. The town of Billerica is very fortunate with its industries, for the two mills in North Billerica, the Taft mill and the Billerica Co. are now operating full time with a full complement of help, while some of the departments of both mills are running overtime.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Man Who Threw Cue Ball Is Charged With Assault and BatteryA melee between husband and wife said to have been staged in a Gosham street pool room on the afternoon of September 3 resulting from conjugal differences was reproduced before Judge Bright in the district court this morning. As a result of the attached fracas Walter Naomi was charged with assault and battery on Mrs. Catherine Kelley.The story as related the court by plaintiff, defendant, witnesses and lawyers all possessed with vivid power of description, is to the effect that on the afternoon of the date in question
Mrs. Catherine Kelley was walking along Gosham street just outside of a pool room when a cue ball came whizzing through the air and struck her on the left wrist.The identity of the hurler of that ball was the bone of contention before the court, but the police arrested
Naomi, lodging a charge of assault and battery. Mrs. Kelley exhibited her wounded wrist which showed a large black and blue mark. She stated she was under the care of a physician and feared an abscess was forming.After Mrs. Kelley told how she had been hit by the ivory missile, which she thought flew through the pool room door, Walter Taraskavitch, said to be the proprietor of the billiard room, appeared on the stand.He related that Mrs. Naomi went to the pool room that afternoon looking for her husband. When she saw him in the rear of the room playing pool she seized a cue stick and struck three times over his back, the stick finally breaking in the struggle that ensued between husband and wife.
The broken cue was a court exhibit this morning.As the pair were being separated by bystanders, Taraskavitch stated
Naomi seized a ball from the table and hurled it at his wife. The ball

The case is considered very mild by the attending physician as the patient has not lost entire consciousness and is being fed at regular intervals. The matter has been reported to the state health authorities.

SEN. BORAH TO OPPOSE GERMAN PEACE TREATY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—"I am opposed to the German peace treaty," this emphatic statement was authorized by Senator Borah of Idaho, a republican member of the foreign relations committee, last night. It is the first explicit indication of his attitude. He has been studying the treaty ever since it was made public some time ago, comparing its provisions with those carried in the treaty of Versailles to which frequent reference is made. He has reached the conclusion that it is impossible for him to support the pact.

Although Senator Borah would not go beyond announcing his opposition to the German peace treaty, it is known that he will lead the anti-ratification fight. At the same time Mr. Borah will not conduct a filibuster or seek to delay final action. He will present his views fully, explaining to the country exactly how the German pact endorses the Versailles treaty.

It is declared that an official who might be able to clear up the mystery surrounding the alleged deficit has been missing since Monday.

League Startled By Hostilities

GENEVA, Sept. 21. (By the Associated Press).—Announcement that hostilities between Jug-Slavia and Albania have broken out has startled the assembly of the League of Nations, in session here, and there is a disposition on the part of many of the more prominent leaders to bring the situation before the assembly at the earliest possible moment. Lord Robert Cecil, representing the Union of South Africa, and Dr. Fridtjof Nansen of Norway, are particularly anxious that the assembly should take some action regarding the situation.

Serious Disorders In Vienna

VIENNA, Sept. 21.—Serious disorders occurred in this city yesterday following the closing of the Bourse. Many rushes were made upon the entrances to the building, but these were checked by the police. The crowds then wrecked the shops of several money changers in the vicinity, while a few men suspected of speculating in foreign exchange were dragged from their automobiles and beaten.

Notice this delicious flavor when you smoke Lucky Strike—it's sealed in by the toasting process pronounced satisfactory by a large proportion of the republicans and democrats it is not expected that 32 votes could be mustered against it. It is assumed that Senators La Follette and Norris will co-operate with Borah, but Johnson of California has given no inkling as to what his position will be.

Republican leaders of the senate were notified yesterday by President Harding that he will send in the German peace treaty today. At the same time he will submit the treaties with Hungary and Austria. The treaties will be at once referred to the committee on foreign relations. It is believed little time will be consumed in committee and an early report to the senate is anticipated.

The plan of some republican leaders to have the treaties debated behind closed doors also is threatened with opposition. An effort to have the debate in the open is expected to precede the controversy over the treaties themselves.

GIRL'S CLOTHING TORN BY MYSTERIOUS HANDS

KENNEBUNK, Me., Sept. 21.—That a caged spirit is savagely trying to beat its way out of the frail body of Florence Harriman is the belief of her parents, friends and relatives. For more than four weeks this little girl has been the centre of a series of manifestations that are apparently unexplainable. The home of her father, in Kennebunkport, has been turned topsy turvy and the malign influence has even followed the little girl to the home of her aunt, Mrs. Everett Howe, in Brown street, Kennebunk.

Florence Harriman is only 14 years old and unmarried. She is apparently unmoved by the unseen force that has surrounded her, even though her clothing has been ripped to shreds on her body and her mother has been driven close to the verge of a nervous breakdown. Yesterday she played with a little puppy dog while her father, Arthur Harriman, told a reporter about the reign of terror that has turned his home into a nightmare dwelling.

No one has any explanation for the force working about Florence Harriman. A well-known spiritualistic medium from Portland visited the Harrimans and confessed herself completely baffled. Florence goes about with a perfect unconcern. She doesn't understand it either, she says.

No one in the town were at first inclined to put the whole business down as a joke. They thought someone was trying to show the Harrimans a good time. Some friends, they believed, was tapping on the walls on the Harriman house and upsetting chairs and tables. But they don't think that way now. The air of mystery surrounding the whole affair has deepened to such an extent that the Harriman "ghost" has become the sole topic of conversation in the town.

Monday night, Mr. Harriman swears the "ghost" visited little Florence again and talked with her. There were none of the previous manifestations such as the ripping of bed clothes or the breaking of plates. But just as the clock struck midnight, Mr. Harriman says he woke with a start. His daughter's room adjoining his and he could hear her whispering in the dark.

"Florence, are you awake?" he called.

"Yes, papa, I am," was the prompt response, and then the whispering continued. Mr. Harriman says it made the cold chills rise on his body as he listened to the little girl's whispering. He went into the room with a light and she was staring, he says, at a blank wall and whispering confidently. She was not asleep and not dreaming, but as soon as he came into the room, her father says, she gave a deep sigh and sank back on her pillow sound asleep. She does not remember anything of the whispering, but recalls her father asking her if she was awake.

NEW VEILS WORN UPSIDE DOWN

BY MARIAN HALE
NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Certainly the world seems upside down if you are looking through the latest veils. Have you seen the brand new, last word, derrier cri and all that sort of thing in these feminine face coverings? It is to gasp with admiration. The latest imports in veils at Lord & Taylor's are gorgeously embroidered in glowing flowers and fruits. Brilliant geranium bloom amid vivid leaves. Plums and cherries clamber over the lattice of chintilly mesh. The new veils are worn upside down with the border up over the hat and the fine mesh of the veils falls over the face. Veils this season are terribly "vogue." They are of all sizes and pretensions. Some of them have exquisite borders. Originality of mesh is a feature, some square meshes measuring a quarter of an inch. The big mesh veil is especially good and when combined with the chintilly and chintilly lace border is decidedly chic. The dotted cheville veils bear such heavy dots that one wonders sometimes how a woman can manage to peek over them. But one thing is most striking—that is the heavy borders instead of hanging loose over the face are draped over the hat. In the brilliant new colored embroidery, the designs look as though they were really a decoration of the hat.

THE BILDERICH DISTRICT NURSE.
Miss Mary I. Nugent, district nurse for Bilderich was recently appointed school nurse by the school committee. Miss Nugent will look after the schools and will also take care of the tubercular and contagious work of the board of health. ## DISORDER IN NEW YORK ATE NOTHING BUT

Police Charge Crowd With Clubs and Scatter Food Distributors

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Bryant park was the scene of another disturbance last night when police swarmed into it to disperse a crowd of unemployed, attacking with night sticks many who did not move fast enough and beating them over the head and shoulders. Several men were thrown to the pavement in the scuffle.

The police charge occurred when six elderly women, members of a charitable organization known as "The Sunset Club," began to distribute sandwiches among the men who sleep in the park. The women were jostled during the encounter and Mrs. Eleanor Chapman, a grandmother, aged 59, was carried away by friends. She declared she would file assault charges against the police who participated.

The men were driven out of the park and the food was eventually distributed on the sidewalk outside. The police said they broke up the crowd because it was "obstructing traffic." Urban Lecloux, a Frenchman, charged with distributing food cards among the unemployed during a tour made last night along the water front and the lower part of New York. He was accompanied by a police sergeant.

URGES CONSUMERS TO BUY COAL

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—State Fuel Administrator Hultman yesterday warned consumers against delay in buying their winter's coal supplies, declaring that Boston retailers had delivered about 20 per cent. less coal in the five months ended Aug. 31 last than during the corresponding period in 1920.

The situation in this city is not alarming, he said. Mr. Hultman said, but interference with the normal flow of coal from producer to consumer would result in conditions similar to those existing last year. The retail price of coal has dropped from $15 to $14.75 and $15 a ton since a year ago, while the wholesale price at the mine has remained substantially unchanged and all rail freight rates on the Boston & Albany and New York, New Haven & Hartford railroads have advanced 42 and 41 cents, respectively, he said.

Dealers have large stocks of coal on hand at present, he added.

LARCENY FROM LOWELL WOMAN CHARGED

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—Ernest E. Smith and Nathaniel W. Niles, members of the bankrupt firm of Ernest E. Smith & Co., pleaded not guilty yesterday to indictments charging larceny of stock certificates from Miss Emma Buttick of Lowell. They were held in $5000 bonds each for trial.

Smith also pleaded not guilty to a charge of having criminally libeled District Attorney S. Howard Donnell of Essex county in a statement made following his arrest. He furnished $5000 bonds in this case also.

A British company claims that chalk can be used as a coal substitute.

ATE NOTHING BUT LIQUIDS FOR A YEAR

"I'M CONVINCED TANLAC SAVED MY LIFE," SAYS MRS. MONETTE—GAINS 30 POUNDS

"I just can't help but believe Tanlac has saved my life," said Mrs. Belle Monette, 261 Chestnut St., Springfield, Mass.

"Besides, relieving me of three years' awful suffering, Tanlac has built me up fifteen pounds in weight, and I actually feel twenty years younger."

"After getting up from a terrible attack of pneumonia in 1918, it seemed that my health was completely and hopelessly wrecked. For almost a year I had to live on liquid food, and my stomach was so weak I couldn't take but very little of that. I couldn't eat anything substantial to give me any strength, and I could hardly do a bit of my housework. My head hurt so bad for days at a time it seemed like it would burst, and I often got so dizzy I couldn't stand up."

"Well, a few bottles of Tanlac have completely restored my health, strength and energy, and I can now do all my housework without getting tired. I eat more at one meal now than I used to eat in two days, and everything agrees with me and I never have a headache or dizzy spell any more. Tanlac certainly has been a godsend to me."

Tanlac and Tanlac Vegetable Pills are sold in Lowell by Green's Drug Store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; A. D. Falls, Chelmsford, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass.; and by the leading druggists in every town.—Adv.

SENATE LEADERSHIP MAY BE CHANGED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Possibility of changes in leadership of senate republicans was discussed yesterday by members returning for the re-assembling of congress today. Senator Lodge is to continue as floor leader but other changes in the majority party organization were said to be under consideration.

Senator Cummings of Iowa has been in ill health for several months and should be desired to relinquish his duties as president pro tempore of the senate it was said that Senator Curtis, vice chairman of the republican conference and party whip probably would be the choice for the office.

Senator Nelson of Indiana was reported to be favored in that event, as successor to Senator Curtis as vice-chairman and whip.

NEW YORK PAPERS WILL BE MERGED

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The independent one of the oldest weeklies in this country has been purchased by the Weekly Review. It was announced last night. The two journals will be merged October 1 as the Independent and Weekly Review, under the editorship of Fabian Franklin and Harold de V. Fuller. Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent, will join the staff as consulting editor.

WILD RUNAWAY IN MERRIMACK STREET

Crashing into three autos on a wild dash through Merrimack square, throwing its driver, Ira E. Shaw of 20 Nelson street, from the wagon a runaway horse furnished the people of that section plenty of excitement at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Although Mr. Shaw's arms and eyes were somewhat injured he was able to go to his home after being treated at St. John's hospital.

The horse was drawing an ice wagon owned by the Gage Ice company. Near Palmer street the animal became frightened and bolted, Shaw losing control.

Crashing down Merrimack street the team crashed against an auto in front of Macartney's store. The animal tore loose and galloped on hitting two more machines. The last crash tore the shafts away from the wagon and hurled Shaw to the street.

Shaw was picked up and given first aid at Bailey's drug store and removed to the hospital. The horse was halted on East Merrimack street uninjured.

SURPRISE PARTY

An enjoyable surprise party was held last night at the home of Miss Mary T. Gordon, 61 Loring street in honor of her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Finlay. Three Epochs in Woman's Life. There are three critical stages in a woman's life which leave their mark on her career—the first when she changes from a care-free girl to a woman, the second motherhood, and the third is change of life. Most of the misery which comes to women through ill health dates from one or another of these periods, but women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a reliable remedy and has been very successful in overcoming the ailments which may come to them at these times, as it is a natural restorative for such conditions. Nearly a half a century of success attests Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to the respect and confidence of every fair-minded woman.—Adv.

FRATERNAL NEWS

A regular meeting of Ladies' auxiliary, 26, Glen Grant, 141, O.S.C. was held last night in G.A.R. hall with P.P. S. Reed in the chair. Routine business was transacted and plans were discussed for a Halloween party. President Gaffney occupied the hour.

Ladies' Auxiliary, A.O.H. President Gaffney occupied the chair at the regular meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary, Div. 1, A.O.H. which was held last evening in A.O.H. hall, Middle street. Several applications for membership were received, routine business was transacted and plans were made to send eight of the officers to the biennial convention of Middlesex county, which will be held in Woburn, Sept. 25.

FURNISH SPEAKER ON NEW CHARTER

Any organization, society, club or other gathering of citizens desiring information concerning the proposed new charter which has been drafted by the Lowell charter commission, will be furnished a speaker by the commission. It was announced after a meeting of the commission in city hall last evening.

Any individual citizen wishing detailed information concerning the new charter is requested to communicate with Chairman James B. Casey or Secretary Abel R. Campbell.

The commission authorized the chairman to appoint a publicity committee to give service to the public from now until the date of the special election on Oct. 18 at which the proposed charter will be accepted or rejected by the public.

For Unemployment Relief

The fact that special sessions of the general court have been held during the past two years on matters which were of less vital importance than the present unemployment crisis is given by the local legislators as one of the reasons for a special session this year.

Unless the governor orders a special session, the legislature will not again meet until January. By that time, the winter will be at its height and unless there is an improvement in industrial conditions, it is pointed out that much suffering may result.

The suggestion made by Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy at yesterday's meeting of the municipal council that civil service laws insofar as they pertain to laborers employed by the city of Lowell be suspended for a period of three months also meets with the approval of the Lowell legislators. The question has come up whether the governor should be able to bring about such suspension by appealing to the civil service commission to suspend temporarily its regulations insofar as they pertain to Lowell or whether the legislature will have to take action to bring about such procedure. Those familiar with state house matters believe to the belief that the civil service commission has the authority to suspend its own laws.

Mayor Perry D. Thomson has written to Governor Cox as directed by the municipal council and expects a reply within a day or two. The mayor feels that the city itself is doing all it can possibly do to relieve the situation. He says he does not believe there is any necessity for a committee to handle the situation.

In the meantime, Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy is preparing to discharge over 200 men illegally employed by him, according to the civil service commission. Most of these men have been given only a week's work now and then and do not constitute the regular force of the department. From now on Mr. Murphy will employ no man unless his name has been certified by the civil service commission.

MILL CLUB TO HAVE BOWLING LEAGUE

At a meeting of the Massachusetts Mill Athletic association held last evening in the club rooms in one of the mill buildings, plans to organize a bowling league were perfected. The meeting was presided over by President John Cheswick and every department of the mill was well represented.

After it was voted to form a league, a committee was appointed to see the officers of last year's bowling league and induce them, if possible, to again take charge of the league this year as the members were well satisfied with the work accomplished and the efficient manner in which the league was conducted. The following captains were appointed: Fred Eldridge, yard team; Frank Boyle, card room; Henry Scanlon, cloth room; J. Swanson, dress room; Richard Potter, weave room; Patrick Neville, spinning room; H. Clough, dye house and Jack Ganley, machine shop.

It was announced that the game schedules will be placed in the hands of the printer at the earliest date possible and that Kittredge's alleys have been retained for the opening game, which will be rolled October 18. Another meeting will be held Monday evening, September 26 at the mill club rooms for further arrangements, and the captains of the various teams are requested to be present so as to make arrangements for the opening night and also draw up a set of resolutions and by-laws. A very successful season is looked for by all the employees of the mill who are interested in bowling.

terests of the city to any project which would serve to reduce the flow or power of the Merrimack river was made known to the committee members who said that they had come merely to investigate all possible sources of supply as directed by the legislature in connection with the trip of the committee Chief Engineer Goodnough of the state department of health has prepared for the members of the committee a memorandum reviewing the history of water supplies in this section and also pointing out the need for additional sources of supply in the near future.

He takes pains to repeat the warning sent to the city of Lowell some years ago, advising against the continued use of water from the River Meadowbrook, which is found objectionable because of the presence of an excessive amount of carbonic acid, and which some years ago was the cause of a serious epidemic of lead poisoning.

Mr. Goodnough also refers to the old suggestion that the waters of the Merrimack be used as a source of supply for the metropolitan district, and while he makes no specific recommendation with reference to it, by inference he permits the committee to understand that he does not approve the project.

LITTLE PERSONAL PRIDE'S ALL RIGHT

BY MME. MORREAU

PARIS, Sept. 21.—You'll never know what a thoroughly vain woman you can be until your nails are in perfect trim—and better yet until you have made them so yourself!

And you can make them so; it's all in getting your pride worked up to the point where it will make you work for it. Really, a little vanity or personal pride is good for your soul!

It keeps you sweeter from the inside out! It won't let you sag.

Perhaps you never thought of changing your nails from the pudgy, unattractive things which they are to nice, tapering ones? But you can, you know! The world is full of concrete feminine proof!

First cut your nails down quite deep on the sides. Not so deep that they'll really hurt but well down. Then soak them in warm soapy water. If they're the kind of nails which curl down and grow proud flesh underneath, take your orange stick and work away under them, gently but firmly wedging away the proud flesh until you have the white part of the nail quite free of flesh.

Some of the flesh substance will be hard and white, callous and rather dead; take your cuticle scissors and cut that all neatly away. Then pad just lots of cuticle cream all around where you've been cutting and pushing back to prevent any soreness.

Cut your nails evenly; don't point them! Keep in mind, for the entire shape of your nails, a perfect oval from tip to tip, pushing back and cutting to get the effect.

And in idle moments pinch the tips of your fingers, to make them more neatly pointed.

Keep it up all winter! By spring your friends will be wondering how you ever acquired your lovely, tapering fingers and beautifully shaped nails.

entered the home after hearing Ardith moan. She found her playmate beside a bed in which lay the body of her sister. In another bed lay the bodies of the parents. A club into which nails had been driven was standing against the wall. On the wall nearby was a bloody finger print.

The club had been used to beat the heads of the victims almost beyond recognition. The interior of the home indicated no struggle had taken place and the victims' clothing was not disarranged, leading officers to believe the three had been killed as they slept.

Neighbors asserted the crime probably took place Saturday night as members of the Monroe family were last seen at that time. It is believed Ardith lay wounded on the floor nearly 24 hours before being discovered.

Authorities so far have been unable to establish a motive for the crime, as the home was not robbed. Officers believe it was the act of an insane person. Two inmates of the state hospital at Kalamazoo, near here, escaped a week ago, and officers are searching for them, although hospital authorities declared neither of the men was of the criminal type.

NEW STEAM HEATING PLANT SATISFACTORY

The new steam heating system devised to heat the various buildings which go to make up the high school group, was given its first try-out yesterday, and proved most successful. The boilers in the new heating plant were put into operation for the first time and a pressure of 40 pounds sent through the pipes underground to the old high school building in Kirk street. The building immediately warmed up. A few radiators were found where valves will have to be tightened, but with that exception, the system worked perfectly and will be put into permanent operation when the weather warrants it.

Here's Where You See Mary Pickford Kiss Herself

MARY IN VELVET KNICKERS MAKES A DELIGHTFUL BOY, BUT SHE'S JUST AS GOOD AS LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY'S MOTHER. SHE PLAYS BOTH ROLES IN THE PICTURE

By N.E.A. Service
NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—When you take the kiddies—as you surely should—to see Mary Pickford in "Little Lord Fauntleroy," you will have as an excuse the same fiction you use when you take the kiddies to the circus.

You pretend you are going for their sake, sacrificing yourself so they may have enjoyment; and secretly, of course, you are simply crazy to see it yourself. Anybody would be.

For who hasn't read Frances Hodgson Burnett's story? And there's many a man who recalls the boyhood misery that was his when he had a Fauntleroy costume wished on him.

Besides the picture gives you a chance to see Mary Pickford kissing herself! You've seen people double in the movies before, but this is different. It is so well done.

Mary plays little "Cedric Errol," the disinherited Lord Fauntleroy, and also plays "Dearest," his mother, kissing herself and passing herself a photograph—without at least a slight hiatus—is a triumph of filming.

Too had you couldn't have attended the opening picture in New York. Not only were Mary and Doug there, but Mary made a speech and explained how it was done—by timing the film to the second and running it through the camera twice, exposing half of the film each time.

Thus the actions, movements and expressions converged, but to make it a success Mary had to contribute the skill and cleverness of her art. It meant plenty of patience and lots of hard work.

There wasn't much reason for this doubling. But Mary as the child and mother gives a novel touch to the picture.

She made a charming young boy and her's was a delicate portrayal of the misunderstood daughter-in-law of the "Earl of Dorincourt." He was a gaudy old nobleman, quite hostile to the wife of his dead son. And when the spurious heir appeared it was Cedric—again Mary in velvet knickers—who put everything right. Somehow Mary seemed taller as the mother than the little lord. Maybe she was on stilts, but there wasn't anything else stilted about her.

Bernard McConville wrote the screen adaptation from the Burnett story. And one of the delightfully unusual and noteworthy things about the picture is that for once at least a masterpiece has not been radically changed in the movie version.

You'll Get What You Want
Thomas H. Ince announces that as the result of the recent conference of 3200 independent theatre owners in Chicago he will immediately start work with four producing companies at Culver City. He believes in amalgamation of independent producers and independent theatre owners will have the effect of bringing out the highest possible screen art. He says the activities of theatre owners will enable the producers to get a better line on just what the theatregoers want in pictures.

Can You Swallow This?
It's always the silly season for press agents. Harry Brandt calmly claim the recent epidemic of hiccoughs was due to excessive laughter at Buster Keaton comedies.

Lon Chaney is establishing his own producing company.

Mrs. Edna Schley is doing movie comedy adaptations of Clarence Budington Kelland's "Scattergood" stories.

Max Linder, who appeared in his American-made comedy, "Be My Wife," as star and author and director, is working on another Goldwyn comedy.

Alice Lake has in her new picture, "The Golden Gift," but she says she's sticking to the short ones outside the studio.

PRETTY WITNESSES FOR ARBUCKLE TRIAL

FIVE WOMEN WHO ATTENDED ROSCOE ARBUCKLE'S SAN FRANCISCO HOTEL ROOM REVEL AS GUESTS AND WHOSE STORIES TO THE TRIAL JURY MAY SEAL THE FATE OF THE COMEDIAN ACCUSED OF VIRGINIA RAPPE'S DEATH AS AN AFTERMATH OF THE PARTY. ARBUCKLE IS SHOWN IN THE CENTER

BY JACK JUNGMEYER

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—The trial of "Fatty" Roscoe Arbuckle, accused of Virginia Rappe's death, will be featured by such an array of feminine beauty as has seldom if ever been called into a criminal case.

Guests at the fateful revel whence the handsome actress emerged hysterically to die, they will troop in to testify and seal the fate of the funny man who laughs no more.

Arbuckle professes an eye for publicity.

In the films he played opposite some of the most striking beauties of the stage—graceful foils to his ponderous grotesqueries.

PRETTY GUESTS

At the parties for which he was celebrated in studio and he sought the same type of vivacious women to cater to his idea of a good time; and the plaintiffs of his off-stage guests were as accessible to him as avulsion from a chuckling public according to those who know him best.

So at the St. Francis "death party" invitations found their way to many girls accounted of unusual prettiness. Those who came by special bid of Arbuckle and his companions, and those who drifted in casually when word went round that "Fatty" was in town and holding jovial court in a hotel

Virginia Rappe, most exquisite of them all, was among the first to arrive.

Seeking a Laugh

Then in the passing throng which, police say, numbered over thirty women, came in turn Mrs. M. Maud Belmont, Miss Rappe's companion, Zey Pyron-Prevost, Alice Blake, Dolly Clark, Betty Campbell and others, seeking a diverting hour and remaining long enough to witness what they have told police and grand jurors about.

These five, at least, according to the prosecution's plan, must keep details of the Arbuckle party fresh in mind so that they may be able to rehearse it for the jury.

"The proudest party of women witnesses ever involved in a criminal case," is the testimony of discriminating police speaking of the assemblage that came to be amused but departed without laughter.

AVERSION FOR ARBUCKLE

Will anybody ever again laugh at Arbuckle's antics? Never again!

There has rarely been an instance in which a popular idol was smashed more irretrievably in a night than that of the movie actor, Arbuckle, now under indictment for the murder of Virginia Rappe as an episode of a night of drunken orgies.

Before that occurrence Arbuckle was enthroned in the hearts of the people as a movie funniest, and particularly was he beloved by the children; but since the death of Miss Rappe he is looked upon as a monster and regarded with feelings of horror and aversion. He may be acquitted of the charge now held against him, or he may get off with a light sentence, but he can never be restored in public esteem; the people will never again laugh at his movie antics and it will be useless for him to attempt to retrieve his lost prestige. He will never be tolerated in the capacity in which he has furnished fun for the million.

Here, then, is a most striking transformation. It reminds one of Shakespeare's reflection on the death of Caesar:

"But yesterday the word of Caesar might have stood before the world; now lies he there, and none so poor to do him reverence."

But Arbuckle, by disregard of the moral law, brought about his own undoing. He has let the world know how base, how brutal and depraved he is. In the silence of his cell he can contemplate the irreparable consequences of a single crime, the effect upon his victim, his own disgrace and ruin and the scandal to the entire country.

Even if fairly Arbuckle through some miscarriage of justice should escape condemnation for the homicide of which he stands accused, he will everafter be despised and loathed to an extent that will compel him to go where he will not be recognized, to finish his miserable existence. Such is the inexorable punishment to which public condemnation consigns a man who while high in popular esteem has outraged womanhood and debased his own mankind. Thus even though Arbuckle escapes judicial punishment, he can never escape the just sentence of public opinion by which he already stands convicted.

So far from laughing at any Arbuckle film hereafter, decent people will instantly rise in their places and leave the theatre where any such film is shown.

COTTON GROWERS

When President Harding promised to stand firmly against the combinations that endeavor to control congress from the outside, he probably had in mind the selfish policies shown by the southern cotton growers as expressed in the following from the New York Journal of Commerce:

"Experience and observation in the past have conclusively shown that a large part of the operations on cotton exchanges originate in the southern states and are the growth of over-confidence on the part of the growing interests, and of speculators associated with them, that they know more about the future of the plant than anyone else."

"In this aspect of the case the plea for preferential cotton finance, government assisted cotton exporting and government regulated and subsidized cotton planting become absurd. The cotton interests are in exactly the same position as all others. They want the most they can obtain for their product, and are determined to get it. They would smile indeed were 'northern interests' to urge upon them the need of the workers in cities for cheap cotton clothing."

"Not only this, but they do not hesitate to recommend, and so far as possible practice, monopolistic tactics designed to advance prices, and they have no objection to speculation in cotton if it brings in a profit or raises values."

The president referred particularly to the agricultural interests, the farmers and others, including, no doubt, the cotton growers, who have been howling over the fall in the price of their staple. It should be understood that congress cannot favor one interest at the expense of another or of the vast majority of the people.

SOVIETISM FAILED IN CORK

An interesting experiment in Sovietism as applied to industry has just been wound up in the city of Cork, Ireland. Described as "Sovietism" it was rather phony, socialism cut and out, but it was a failure. It was entered upon during the troublous times in Cork, and a rabid Red or advocate of Sovietism as it exists in Russia organized a force sufficient to dispossess the owners of a bakery, in which he was employed and to run the business on the co-operative plan, except that the owners, the stockholders, were to have no interest in the business with the new venture.

There is no other country in the world perhaps so free from socialist influence as Ireland. Nevertheless, less than when the Soviet bakery began, turning out the usual products, it was freely patronized by the people—the proprietors of the Soviet bakery were probably because there was no competing bakery, and hungry folks do not usually stand on ceremony as to who they will purchase their bread when they can get what they want best at hand.

Accordingly, the Soviet bakery seemed to be prospering so far as outward indications went, but when the profits came to be divided up on Sunday night, the employees found that their share was less than they had received from the capitalist owners.

Most of them had not believed the socialist promises of their Red public school teachers. They found the socialist doctrine as applied to the bakery conditions that can be found.

SEEN AND HEARD

People who don't like Lowell might improve it by moving.

Some men stay out late because they are single; others because they are married.

A gentleman bought a tag yesterday for 10 cents and passed it to office mates for five cents a trip to protect them from leaving the office. The day's close found him returning a net of 40 cents. Who invented Tag day, anyhow?—"Pillar and Post," in Chicago Tribune.

Perfect Solitude

A hotel prospectus from Switzerland announces that: "Weissnach is known as the favorite place of resort for those who are fond of solitude. Persons in search of solitude are, in fact, constantly seeking here from the four quarters of the globe."

Hubby Was Crier

Plattental had arrived home late from the office and his wife was not the sort of woman to let a thing like that pass unnoticed. "Why didn't you catch the 7:30 train home tonight, Herbert?" she demanded. "Well, you see, dear," replied Herbert, "I asked a porter from which platform my train started. And he said if I turned to the left, I'd be right. 'Well, didn't you?' 'Unfortunately, no, my dear,' replied her husband. 'A little mistake on my part. I turned to the right and was left!'"

Them That Has, Gets

In the list of jurors drawn yesterday by the municipal council appears the names of several prominent business men, who would undoubtedly much prefer not to serve. Others drawn include men in good positions, who likewise prefer to continue at their present employment. This brings up the question, whether it would be possible at this time, with so many men out of work, to have jurors filled by unemployed. There are a great many men anxious to work who cannot find positions, and who would be delighted to serve as jurors if given the opportunity.

To Save Talk

The proprietor of a barber shop in Fulton street believes it is a good thing for his business to have his patrons call each other by name. To this end he has had one of his 15 employees, who is handy at lettering, scroll the first name of each barber in soap on the mirror in front of each chair.

When a patron enters he sees a row of names—"Tom," "Adam," "Anthony," "Bob," "James" on each side of the mirrored shop. Below each name is an arrow and a number.

"It's like branding cattle," one barber remarked. "I am No. 1 and each morning I back into stall No. 2. The boss insists it is a good idea. Makes the shop more homelike," he says.—New York Sun.

The Brain Has Paths

Scientific men, says Dr. W. E. Dutton, have learned a few things concerning the human brain, and they have much yet to learn. One of the things which they have come to know is that the brain has paths or patterns. The things we do habitually make a kind of track in the structure of the next time we do it. We do it again and again. In a certain sense, nothing done habitually is well done unless there is no consciousness of the effort of doing. A husband watches his wife sewing on buttons. "Why is it," he asks, "that when you sew on buttons, the needle strikes the hole, while with me it strikes the button?" She does not know. She watches to see why it is. And as soon as she begins to watch, she begins to hit the button. A great musician was asked why he continuously practiced. He said: "If I omit my practice for a day, I notice the result. If I omit it for a week, the critics notice it. If I omit it for a month, everyone notices it. No man ever becomes an expert that he can afford to neglect his practice. If he lets it go, those paths in his mind are overgrown and when he begins he has to break his way as if there had been a fall of snow. There are certain things that we need to do, and for the sake of doing them well, we need constant practice. We are doing something, but we are treading paths in our minds. It is well for every man to learn what are the things which he is certain to need to do habitually, and skill himself in the doing of them. There is little danger that he will learn to do them too well. The path will be usual action should be well marked, and should run in the right direction. When we have made them and worn them deep, we shall not find it easy to avoid them."

DRAG UPON BUSINESS

It appears that the senate committee on finance has decided to continue the transportation taxes although freight, passenger and Pullman taxes will probably be reduced for next year. The government has to raise the necessary revenue but taxes on transportation may be regarded as direct taxes upon business and production. They are obstacles to the export of farm products and the shipment of manufactures. The excess profits tax has a like result and the sooner these penalties on business enterprise are removed the sooner can we get back to normal conditions.

REPAIR NESMITH STREET

The Sun has received a number of complaints relative to the condition of Nesmith street, which for some time past has been studiously avoided by motorists. These vehicles use High street instead, and that is to be expected, up by the heavy traffic as it has recently been made a part of the route through Lowell to Boston via Reading. When the street department is planning repairs in the near future, it should include Nesmith street as one of the most important thoroughfares and one which perhaps as much as any other, needs immediate repairs. Nesmith street should have some form of smooth paving.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The concrete walk in the Washington school yard is in a deplorable condition. With this school now having a kindergarten room for the first time, an increased number of small children is attending the daily sessions. At recess time the children are obliged to play in the yard. With the walks in such poor and dangerous condition accidents due to falls are inevitable. And again with the broken pieces of the walk before the eyes of the bigger children might engage in throwing missiles, causing injury to little tots. The condition of the walks is due to negligence as investigation brings the information that they were broken last spring and remained untouched except by the elements during the vacation period. To date no serious accidents have been reported, but many youngsters have tripped over the exposed stones and fallen, sustaining slight bruises and scratches. It would seem that these walks should no longer be neglected, and that those in charge will assume serious responsibility if they delay repair work until some child is seriously injured or maimed for life.

This will be a very poor season for canning, particularly on account of the shortage in the apple crop. For the past few years the war gardens cultivated by many of our citizens afforded a cheap supply of the common vegetables such as tomatoes, lettuce, celery, peas, beans, beets, turnips and carrots. The amateur gardeners were successful in obtaining crops of tomatoes, but in dealing with the other vegetables. Last year the price of sugar was much higher than at present so that this would be a favorable year for canning if apples and vegetables did not cost so much. The potato crop too has been rather short, and the price is high. With the prospect that through the winter it will go much higher. Altogether, it appears that there is very little prospect of any reduction in the cost of living during the coming winter.

From my window I can see the tiny figure of a man perched on the top of very near the top of one of the giant chimneys of a local industrial plant, evidently making repairs on the lofty brick structure. Not only does his position seem very high, but he is where I sit, but I have been wondering if the continuous column of smoke swirling out of the chimney doesn't bother him enough to constitute an actual danger. Even at this distance, the smoke seems to have plenty of volume and density and must seem most oppressive when one actually gets within halting distance of it. A frail staging has been built around the summit of the chimney, wide enough, I suppose, to provide a working platform for the individual whose job it is to make whatever repairs are necessary. It's a job that I shouldn't like even at a very substantial remuneration each week.

SIX AUTOS IN CRASH AT WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Sept. 21.—Fred Mafra, Jr., 6, son of Dr. Mafra of 15 Taunton street, Worcester, was slightly cut on the nose by flying glass from the windshield of the father's car when it hit a Shrewsbury street yesterday afternoon, in a sextuple auto collision. He was the only person who suffered any injury in the tangle, in which six cars were more or less damaged. All the machines were running in "close order" toward the lake.

The first in line was driven by William D. Rice of Shrewsbury, and this machine was stopped suddenly without any signal, according to Charles H. Howard of Northampton, who was following. Howard's car piled into Rice's machine, and in a trice the machine of Robert J. Best of Philadelphia crashed into the Howard car. An auto with a Maine registration smashed into the Best car, and the car of Robert J. Antrim of Somerville ran into the Maine car, and then came the Mafra car to bring up the tail of the wrecked sextet.

The cars were piled apart and all, except the Maine machine, were driven to police headquarters, where the Mafra boy was treated by Police Surgeon Northbridge. After making their reports, all the cars except Rice's continued their trip to Boston. Rice stopped in Shrewsbury.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The Neighborhood School of Music will hold its first recital at 8 o'clock tonight at the school studio, central church. Pupils of eight nations will report weekly at the studio for instruction in voice and music. With this recital the school will resume individual and class work for the winter. An attractive program has been arranged for the concert tonight.

DIED SUDDENLY

Miss Davison Was Adviser to Ex-Pres. Wilson

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 21.—Miss Ellen S. Davison, 57, scholar, author, native of Louisville, Ky., and living in Cambridge, Mass., the past few years, died here in a hotel suddenly yesterday. She was a relative of the late President of the U. S., from Columbia, was writing a textbook on history and at one time was a confidential adviser of ex-President Wilson, associated with Col. E. M. House in a wartime commission.

She was accompanied here by her sister, Mrs. William Belknap of Louisville, and was on her way to a vacation resort, for benefit of her health.

Berton Brakely's Daily Poem A PARTING

In summer weather We've been together, I wonder whether We'll meet once more; We've gone the miles At mountain peaks And sunny spaces Along the shore.

When moonlight shimmered And bright eyes glimmered And my heart shimmered With fancies rare, When roughish glances Brought advances And brought romances— Well, you were there.

On city highways And country byways Your ways were my ways And you held true; By you attended My days were splendid But, summer's ended, Goodbye to you!

And shall we sever Perhaps forever? No, I'll endeavor To discover that; I'll block and clean you And on my bean, you Shall sit next summer As you have sat this summer And those who've seen you Will gaze thereat. And say, "A hummer!" For when I show you They'll never know you, My old straw hat!

ARE REAPING HARVEST

Druggists in this city are reaping a harvest in whiskey sales for prescription purposes and it is high time a stop was put to it. Thus spoke Commissioner Joseph D. McGrath at the meeting of the license commission last night. The speaker told the other members of the board that many complaints are being made against these exorbitant prices by sick persons who must obtain whiskey through a doctor's prescription.

Mr. McGrath stated that druggists retail bonded whiskey at $3 a pint after they have purchased it at $6 a gallon.

"They do not take into consideration," he went on, "that the patient must pay $2 for prescription and must renew the prescription every ten days."

To curb this practice Commissioner McGrath suggested that whiskey for medical purposes be handled from a city dispensary, only the necessary freight expenses to be added to the cost of the liquor. In the sale price charged the patient, the federal authorities would also be enabled to keep a closer watch on the liquor traffic, declared Mr. McGrath.

Minor Permits Granted

The following are the minor permits granted by the board:

Third class liquor licenses to druggists, Austin A. Frye of the firm of Frye & Crawford, 174 Merrimack st. and Fred A. Howard, 137 Central st.; lodging house, Henry E. ## LEDoux AND N. Y. POLICE

IN "COMPROMISE"

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Urban Ledoux, whose activities in behalf of New York's unemployed have been combated by the police, announced early today that he and the police had arrived at a "compromise." He has promised he said, to abandon plans for holding a modern "slave auction" here, and the police have agreed to aid his efforts to feed the jobless.

Carrying out the terms of the compromise Ledoux appeared in Bryant Park this morning with a police escort and began distribution of tickets good for breakfasts in nearby restaurants. He announced he would open a bread line at St. Mark's in the Bowery on Monday. Lodging also will be provided and an employment bureau operated, he said.

HUGE EXCHANGE FRAUD

Many Prominent Persons in Portugal Have Been Arrested

LISBON, Sept. 21.—Many prominent persons in Portugal have been arrested in connection with the huge exchange fraud which was exposed last month. Count de Castro Guimaraes and Alves Diniz, respectively directors of the Lisbon and Azores bank and the Mercantile International Limited, were taken into custody yesterday and it is expected that others of equal prominence will be arrested.

Investigations show that Dr. Alfonso d'Acosta, former premier and minister of finance, was approached by representatives of the "Credit International organization" of Antwerp who offered a credit of $50,000,000 for supplying American products, especially wheat and coal, to Portugal. Senor d'Acosta was authorized by the government to negotiate with the organization which was understood to represent American capitalists.

Immediately the exchange rate rose 50 per cent, but later dropped back to its former low point, and inquiries in Washington showed that the Antwerp organization had no connections in the United States.

STOLE AUTO NUMBER PLATES HERE

Hoping to connect Henry Blair, aged 26, of Nashua, arrested for automobile larceny in that city last night, with recent auto thefts in this city, Captain Atkinson of the Lowell police went to the New Hampshire state city yesterday and recovered a set of number plates stolen from the garage of Frank N. Lapointe, at 35 Ottawa street, a short time ago. The Ottawa street is charged with having stolen does not answer the description of cars taken from this city. Blair admitted stealing the car in Hartford, driving it to Lowell where he stole Mr. Lapointe's number plates, substituted them for the ones he had on the auto and drove back to Nashua where he was taken. He said he threw the Connecticut number plates into the Merrimack river.

GOOD POSITION

Former Lowell Man Appointed Deputy Public Printer

John Greene, a former well known Lowell printer, has been appointed deputy public printer in Washington, the second highest position in the government printing office. Mr. Greene was born in New Jersey but came here as a child. Under the direction of J. N. A. Hurtubise, now of the Sun composing room, Mr. Greene served an apprenticeship in the book and job printing plant of the Vox Press and Mr. Hurtubise says that even at that time he was an excellent workman. Later Mr. Greene went to the Morning Times and in 1893 was appointed a compositor in the government printing office where he has been rapidly promoted.

CONGRESS OPENS BUSY SESSION

Reconvenes at Noon Today

After a Recess Which Began August 24

Peace Treaties, Tax Revision, and Other Important Measures on Calendar

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Congress reconvened at noon today after a recess which began Aug. 24. Under a gentlemen's agreement in the house, however, that body is to begin immediately a series of three day recesses until Oct. 4 while the senate goes ahead at full speed on tax revision, the ratification of peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary, and with a number of other important measures, including the anti-trust, railroad rate funding, allied debt, funding and Panama canal tolls bills.

Presentation to the senate of the peace treaties and possibly of the revenue bill, was expected to be the principal events today although there was a possibility that only a perfunctory session would be held. The tax measure was to be reported out by the finance committee and the peace treaties were to be transmitted with a brief note by President Harding.

Indications were that both the revenue bill and the peace treaties might be considered virtually simultaneously when taken up. Speedy progress is expected with the former but a hard fight is said to be in prospect against the treaties by Senator Borah of Idaho, and a few other republicans and some democrats, because of their opposition to what they consider European entanglements.

Because of the enforced absence beginning in November, of Senator Lodge as a delegate to the monetary conference, it is expected that actual leadership may devolve during that period on the republican whip in the senate.

Senator Curtis of Kansas, vice chairman of the republican conference and party whip, it has been indicated, may be elected president pro tempore of the senate in case Senator Cummings of Iowa, who now holds that office, should desire to relinquish it because of ill health. In such an event it is expected that Senator Watson of Indiana will succeed Mr. Curtis as republican whip.

TAX REVISION BILL RETURNED TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The 1921 tax revision bill, regarded by republicans and democrats alike as one of the most important pieces of legislation to come before this congress was to be returned today to the senate from the finance committee which has spent three weeks in amending many of the provisions agreed upon by the house.

The majority report on the bill had not been completed today. Chairman Penrose hopes to be able to present it tomorrow or Friday and then urge early consideration of the measure with a view to its final enactment before the end of October.

A lively fight in the senate is promised. The democrats plan not only to make a minority report on the bill, but to attack it vigorously from the floor. They count upon support in part of their fight, at least, from Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, and some other members on the republican side.

CONVENTION OF MINE WORKERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 21.—Completion of the reading today of reports by international officers at the convention of the United Mine Workers of America, placed many recommendations before the delegates for consideration. Formal discussion, however, was not expected until late in the day and possibly not until tomorrow.

The reports served to bring the wage question to the front in importance.

Work also was begun today by the resolutions committee to which more than 600 resolutions, adopted by local unions throughout the country had been presented.

INTERNATIONAL COURT

Judges and Deputy Judges

Elected Have Accepted,

Says Geneva

GENEVA, Sept. 21.—(By the Associated Press)—All judges and deputy judges elected to the International court of justice have accepted, it was announced to the assembly of the League of Nations here today by Pres. Van Karnebeck. Therefore, he declared, the court was regarded as financially constituted.

The president said everything was being done to make it possible for the court to function at the earliest possible moment.

The question of Armenia, one of the most familiar subjects on the agenda of the Assembly, was taken up at the opening of today's session, the particular phase considered being a report on the solution recently proposed asking the powers to insert in the eventual treaty of peace between the Greeks and the Turks a clause assuring a "national home" to the Armenians.

Lord Robert Cecil, representing the union of South Africa, in explaining the report, said nothing could be done now "with the Kemalists in rebellion against the whole world" but that the league must be ready to see that when the time came for a settlement the Armenians be given a home entirely independent of Turkish rule.

Delegate Sefelides of Greece said the Assembly's "placid" declarations of sympathy with Armenia" were followed last year by more massacres. "If the Assembly wants to act," he cried, "let it act but include in no more placid resolutions. If more massacres occur, the blood will stain this Assembly itself."

THRILLING RESCUE OF BALLOONISTS AT SEA

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 21.—(By the Associated Press)—Bernard von Hoffman and J. G. McKibben, competitors in the James Gordon Bennett trophy balloon race, arrived in Liverpool last night with a thrilling story of how their balloon, the City of St. Louis, fell into the Irish sea Monday evening, and of their rescue by a passing vessel.

Von Hoffman was the pilot of the balloon and Mr. McKibben the passenger. They said that at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon they were over the water within five miles of the Irish coast, but that owing to the fall of wind they were unable to land and therefore drifted northward with only four bags of ballast left. At 10 o'clock they sighted two ships but failed to obtain assistance from either of them.

"Then," said Von Hoffman, "with only two bags of ballast remaining, we found ourselves in a very serious predicament. We cut away our drag ropes in pieces and also disposed of our spare clothing instruments. Then we slowly sank toward the water."

"Our case seemed hopeless, but at 2:45 o'clock in the evening we sighted another vessel. We immediately dropped overboard a Holmes light, and seeing it was our only chance, we bowed to the balloon down to the waves."

"The captain of the ship lowered a boat, but when we reached the sea McKibben was struck on the head by a lead ring and knocked off the basket and into the water."

"Relieved of his weight the balloon shot upward like a rocket, carrying me with it. I had an opportunity to slip upon the gas envelope and take a snoring chance."

"I descended safely into the sea and was picked up by McKibben. We then were taken into Harwich, four miles southwest of Lanchester."

"Our position when we were picked up was about 15 miles off Dublin, and I think the Swiss balloon, which previously had been seen, should have been carried somewhere in the same vicinity."

URGES FOOD BE RUSHED TO RUSSIA

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, who is in Moscow, has cabled the union headquarters here to rush shipments of foodstuffs for the relief of Russian famine sufferers.

He arrived at the Bolshevik capital several days ago with funds for relief work contributed by his organization and in a cablegram given out today suggested the purchase of $200,000 worth of wheat flour, and its shipment by the quickest possible route.

FUNERAL TODAY OF JOSE SANTOS

SHEPPARD-TOWNER BILL

Dr. Maguire Makes Plea For

Maternity Legislation at

Conference

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 21.—A plea for the Sheppard-Towner bill or other maternity legislation likely to come before congress was made yesterday by Dr. Walter G. Maguire of Chicago, in an address at the seventh national conference, Catholic Charities in session here.

"It is only through education, state control, special inspection and careful supervision of all maternity matters that we can hope to economize lives in this country," said Dr. Maguire. "Twenty thousand mothers die annually and over 250,000 children each year because of the lack of proper care given to the women at child birth."

The work of the National Council of Catholic Women will include, next year, the maintenance in all conferences, concerned with the discussion of moral, social and industrial questions, according to the report of Miss Agnes Regan, executive secretary of the council, of Washington, D. C., which was read by Dr. Anne Nicholson.

Two hundred nuns are attending the conference which closes Thursday, on Friday and Saturday they will hold a convention of their own to discuss their institutional problems.

SAW MISSING BRIDE IN BOSTON, HE BELIEVES

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—William McLaughlin, a disabled veteran of the world war, who lives with his family at 10 Wall street, Charlestown, stated in an interview last evening that a young woman he saw on North Washington street, near Causeway street, this city, bore a striking resemblance to Mrs. North Johnson Kettelle, who mysteriously disappeared from a camp in Connecticut, while on her honeymoon.

Mr. McLaughlin said that Mrs. Kettelle's disappearance has been the subject of discussion in his household since evening. Friday morning he saw a picture of the young woman in a morning paper. As he was walking to Boston at 1:20 that morning he saw a young woman leaning on the arm of a young man, just beyond Endicott and Causeway streets, on North Washington street, not far from a chocolate factory.

"The young woman bore a striking resemblance to the missing bride," said Mr. McLaughlin. "She wore a round turned-up hat, not very large and of brownish material; a neat tailored suit of brownish material, with a row of buttons in the back, the skirt of which came down to just above her ankles; black stockings and low cut brown shoes. I feel sure she is the missing woman."

The Boston police have been notified of McLaughlin's story and are making an investigation. The police of surrounding cities and towns have also been notified to look for a young woman answering the description provided by Mr. McLaughlin.

FEATURES OF THE ARMS PARLEY AGENDA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(By the Associated Press)—The tentative agenda that the United States has transmitted to the principal powers who will participate in the conference on limitation of armaments and Pacific and far eastern questions suggests on broad lines subjects for consideration. ## Folks Laugh at Corns Now

Millions Have Proved Them Needless. They Stop Them by a Touch

Do you know that one method is now ending corns for millions of people? People all around you employ it. They never let a corn pain twice.

The method is Blue-jay—the liquid or the plaster. It is made by a surgical dressing house of world-wide repute. A touch applies it, and the pain stops instantly. Soon the whole corn loosens and comes out.

The way is gentle, scientific, sure. Once you know it, you will laugh at corns.

Get Blue-jay now—apply it tonight. Watch the effect on one corn. Get Blue-jay at your druggists.

PREMIER MEIGHEN FORMS UNIONIST CABINET

OTTAWA, Sept. 21.—Premier Meighen today reorganized his Unionist cabinet with a view to strengthening it for the approaching general election. Eleven new members and 16 retained from the previous ministry took the oath of office before Governor General Byng. Among those who retired is C. J. Doherty, who was minister of justice and is now a delegate to the Assembly of the League of Nations meeting at Geneva. Premier Meighen announced that he would probably appoint him to some other office.

Mr. Meighen continued as prime minister and minister of external affairs. The new members are:

Railways and canals—J. A. Stewart, Lanark.

Trade and commerce—H. H. Stevens, Vancouver.

Justice—R. B. Bennett, Calgary.

Postmaster-general—L. G. Belley, Quebec.

Secretary of state—Rodolphe Monty, Montreal.

Health, immigration and colonization—Dr. J. W. Edwards, Frontenac.

Soldiers and civil re-establishment—R. J. Manton, Fort William.

Customs and excise—J. B. M. Baxter, St. John N. B.

President of the privy council—Dr. L. G. Normand, Three Rivers.

Without portfolio—James Wilson, Saskatoon, and Edmund Bisset, Toronto.

The following incumbents are retained:

Public works—F. B. McCurdy, Finance—Sir Henri Daulton, Agriculture—S. F. Tolmie, Labor—G. D. Robertson, Marine and naval—C. C. Ballantyne, Interior—Sir James Loughheed, Militia and defense—Hugh Guthrie, Without portfolio—E. K. Spencey and Sir Robert Knapp.

The portfolio of solicitor-general will be filled later.

J. D. Reid, retiring minister of railway and canal, and Sir George Foster, retiring minister of trade and commerce are slated for appointment to the senate and R. G. Wignmore, retiring minister of customs and excise, for another appointment. P. E. Blondin, retiring postmaster-general, is already a member of the senate. It is believed Mr. Doherty will receive a judicial appointment. An announcement as to when parliament will dissolve and a general election will be held is expected tomorrow.

PENROSE CANDIDATES BEATEN IN PENN.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—Majorities of between 60,000 and 75,000 were rolled up in yesterday's primary election by the group of candidates for county offices supported by the regular republican organization, headed by State Senator E. H. Vane, over those backed by the voters' league, an independent organization, whose candidates were endorsed in public statements by United States Senator Penrose.

The question of holding a convention to revise the state constitution was still in doubt early today. Thomas S. Granger, republican of Greene county, was elected a congressman-at-large from Pennsylvania at a special election, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mahlon M. Garland.

The schooner Mayflower is barred from the international race for fishing schooners between United States and Canada. The Boston boat, built especially to defend the cup, made only enough fishing trips to enable her to qualify.

The race is for ordinary boats from the fishing fleets. Building a special centerline isn't in keeping with the spirit of the sport.

"HEADQUARTERS"

France has asked American A.A.U. officials to send over American coaches to train French athletes for the 1924 Olympic games, and the request has been granted.

Mexico has contracted with the Dallas and San Antonio baseball teams to play a post-season series of six games at Mexico City, to give Mexicans an insight into American sport.

The prestige that America enjoys as international "sporting headquarters" influences more than is suspected America's international political position.

New York's police force consists of 24 inspectors, 25 sergeants, 103 captains, 241 lieutenants, 769 sergeants, 1342 patrolmen and 75 policemen, and that would be half enough if the world series is played there.

World Series Fame; Heroes Get Some of It, But Those Who Pull Boners Become Famous

MERKLE'S FIRST BONE KEPT THE GIANTS OUT OF A SERIES — AND HIS SECOND LOST A WORLD SERIES

BY ROY GROVE

Whaddy mean fame in a world series?

Home-run Baker's feat? "Big Six" Mathewson? Elmer Smith's home run with the bases full?

Pooh! Pooh! Be yourself, man. Why don't you talk about somebody with some real world series fame; somebody who really gets talked about?

Merkle, Snodgrass, Faber, Zimmerman and Flick; the boys who really did something?

There's no doubt but that Fred Merkle did his share. He all but crowded Washington and Lincoln out of the hall, when old man Fate checked him up with two of the most costly errors in the history of baseball.

The first kept the Giants out of a world series; the second lost one for the same team.

Near the close of the season of 1903, the Giants and Cubs were battling for the pennant, two were out in the ninth and the score was tie. McCormick was on third and Merkle occupied first. Bridwell sent the ball far into the outfield and McCormick eased over the plate.

Merkle started for second, but seeing McCormick score, he stopped and started for the clubhouse, thinking the game over. Evers seeing Fred had failed to touch second, gathered the ball in, called to the umpire, and touched second with the ball. The ump called Merkle out, and crossed out McCormick's run.

The tie was played out later and the Cubs won. Four years later Merkle, still with the Giants, met Boston in a world series. Each club had won three games, one being a tie.

The Giants were leading in the 16th inning. Speaker lifted a foul over the first sack. Merkle watched the ball float over his head, making no effort to catch it. Neyer nearly broke his neck to get it—but was too late.

Speaker then singled, scoring a run.

ner and trying the score. Later the Sox stepped in with the winning number.

"Red" Faber's misplay in the 1917 White Sox-Giants series was a classic. There was a runner on first when "Red" snared one for a single, and stretched it for a double, the man going to third.

"Red" stood there excited, watched the pitcher wind up. Then it occurred to him that the smart thing to do was to steal.

He did. Tearing down to third, he slid into the sack, jumped up, dusted himself off and looked up into the eyes of one of his fellow runners, still camped on third.

"Out," said the ump, and old man Fate pulled out tape for measurements in Goatsville.

Snodgrass is probably the most popular of them all. It was Snodgrass's hard luck play that cost the Giants the world series of 1912.

The series went the limit, and as one of the previous games had been a tie, it was necessary to play an extra game.

The Giants had the game clinched in the first half of the 10th, when they took the field. Then Snodgrass muffed Engle's easy fly, putting Engle half way around Merkle's fumble of speaker's foul followed. This then blinged, sending in Engle with the tying run, while Yerkes, who had walked, followed a minute later with the run that won the game and series.

Plack's error gave the Red Sox the series again in 1915. It was the same sort of a miff that Snodgrass pulled, and it cost the Cubs two runs, giving the Sox a lead which Chicago was unable to overtake.

Heinie Zimmerman is in good standing in the Goat club. Heinie's honor came in the last game of the 1917 world series between the Giants and White Sox.

With the bases full of White Sox, Pitcher Benton flung Feltch's weak grounder and ran to the third base line to drive Eddie Collins back to third. He threw the ball to Heinie, stationed on the hot corner. Meantime Catcher Hardesty had also run out toward third. Heinie foolishly ran the runner toward home, and, too late, found there was no one there to take his throw. Heinie then ran a fool-race into the plate, Heinie finishing so far in the rear that it was ludicrous.

There is considerable local interest in the possibility of a pitching duel between Jimmy Davidson, the elongated K. of C. twirler and Andrews, the star moundman for the Boston post office team, when the pair clash at Springfield next Saturday afternoon.

Davidson is regarded as one of the most successful pitchers in the state and his remarkable box work has placed the local knights in a position to advance a claim for the state semi-professional championship. Many of the star teams in and around Boston have come here with long lists of victories only to be set down by the local twirler.

Andrews is ranked as one of the most sensational pitchers in Greater Boston, and he has a perfect record on the hill for the Huh letter carriers. He will pitch for Lawrence, who formerly captained the Holy Cross baseball team, will make their bow as members of Manager Coughlin's classy knights.

Inter-City Series

The Centravites, champions of the Lowell Twilight League and the Lawrence K. of C., winners of the title in the down river city, will stage their second battle on the South common Saturday afternoon. The Lawrence team won the opening battle at the series in Lawrence, principally through the air tight box work of Maloney, who held the locals to three hits. The Lowell players, however, feel confident that they will be in better form in the second encounter, and are determined to even up the count in the next battle.

HERMAN TRAINING HARDER THAN EVER

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Johnny Hoff, dyed-in-the-wool, who will meet Pete Herman, the bantamweight titleholder, here in a 15-round decision bout Friday night, held the New Orleans boys to a draw in eight rounds two years ago.

The heavyweight is an older fighter than Herman and has won many of his bouts by a knockout. Herman claiming that he has developed a more aggressive style and a harder punching power since his other fight with Hoff, is training harder than ever before in his career. He has employed no less than half a dozen sparring partners.

Furnish Tennis Thrills

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 21.—The thrills in tennis are not limited to the splashes of the spectators.

The player gets his kick out of the game now and then. The English team, at the national singles championship tournament held here, supplied the kick.

The red-faced Englishman, Gordon Lowe, was the most surprised bird in the tournament to think that he lasted so long. He was expecting himself to be eliminated early, but Tilden, the champion, eliminated him only after a run which surprised everybody.

J. O. Anderson, Australian, who makes up the height for the shorter players, and a dark horse all along, surprised the fans when he defeated Richard Norris Williams.

QUIMET AND GUILFORD SURVIVE FIRST ROUND

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—Our two Massachusetts players, Francis Quimet and Jesse P. Guilford, survived the first round of match play of the United States amateur championship golf tournament at the St. Louis Country club yesterday.

Quimet eliminated Max Marston, ex-New Jersey champion and present Pennsylvania amateur titleholder, by 2 and 1. While Guilford disposed of George Von Elm of Salt Lake City by 5 and 4.

PROTEST ELIMINATION OF THE MAYFLOW

GLOUCESTER, Sept. 21.—Not all of Gloucester is in agreement with the American race committee in accepting without protest, the disbarment of the Boston schooner Mayflower from this year's race for the international fishermen's cup. Mayor Wheeler, himself a designer of boats, speaking at a meeting of the committee last night, said a mistake was made when the committee acquiesced on the elimination by the Canadian cup trustees of the vessel that was named as the American defender.

"Why eliminate the Mayflower?" he asked, after referring to the fact that it was contended she was more nearly a yacht than a fishing boat, a skilled Nova Scotian designer had down the lines for the speedy vessel which was built especially as this year's Canadian challenger. Down east they must think that we of Gloucester are a lot of chumps."

Others present replied that the Mayflower violated the spirit of the deed of gift of the trophy. Captain George Peoples, president of the Master Mariners' Association, then joined with Mayor Wheeler in his protest. "I know personally that practically all the masters and fishermen at this port are in favor of sending the Mayflower down the river to defend the cup against the Bluenose," he said.

Others took issue with this statement and the committee then returned to the work of planning for the financing of the elimination race on Oct. 12 at which a boat will be selected to take the place of the Mayflower as the American defender.

MERRIMACK BOWLING LEAGUE

The Merrimack Bowling League will start its season of 1921 and 1922 at Kittredge's alleys Friday, Oct. 7, with the following teams: Motive Power, Wreckers, Fustian Dept., Pipe Shop, Tin Shop, Warm Twisters, Spinning and Spooling. The officers of the league are: G. Fortier, president; E. Foye, vice president; F. Rubin, secretary; E. Clark, treasurer. This is the starting of the fifth season, and promises to be more successful than former ones, as the teams are much stronger, and more evenly matched. It is whispered that Charles W. H. Jones, the ever smiling captain of the Corduroy team, will team up with his former rival, Harry R. W. C. Napier, making the Fustian Dept. one of the strongest teams in the mill. The Pipe Shop, with Luke Walsh and Bill O'Brien, two of the best bowlers in the city, has produced in years, will also be in the running, and make things interesting for Spinning and Wreckers, who have taken the place of Machine Shop.

JESSE GUILFORD LEADS SKIRMISH FOR TITLE

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—(By the Associated Press)—The second battle of the links was waged over the field of the St. Louis Country club today with a certainty that half of the gallant army of golfers would be extinguished at the end of 36 holes of fighting for the national amateur golf championship now held by Chas. Evans of Chicago, who, in defending his crown, will meet Richard Bockenkamp of St. Louis.

The skirmish for the title was led by the Boston "edge gun" Jesse Guilford, who after qualifying with a good score and eliminating Van Elm of Salt Lake City in yesterday's first, measured drives with Dewey Weber of Chicago, conqueror of Roger Lord of St. Louis in the first round.

Next in the battle array were Francis Quimet, who has won both national and international competition, and H. R. Johnston of St. Paul, who shoots a longer ball than most, who shot a longer ball than most, who shot a longer ball than most.

Max Marston, Philadelphia, who defeated the Vermont A.C. in their final game of the season recently played, yesterday at the 35th green.

FISH AND GAME CLUB OUTING TOMORROW

BARNES AND HUTCHISON MEET BRITISH STARS

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Jim Barnes, American open golf champion, and Jack Hutchison, holder of the British title, were opposed today to George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, British professionals, at the Garden City Golf Club. The match was the third of a series of five. The visiting pair won each of the previous matches by a margin of 1 up.

Duncan and Mitchell will play two 18-hole matches at the Shuttlesworth club links, New Britain, Conn., Saturday. In the morning match, the Englishmen will be picked against Robert Andrus, former amateur champion of Scotland, now the New Haven Country club professional, and Jack Staltz, professional of the Hartford club.

In the afternoon round, they will be paired against Reggie Lewsey, Connecticut state champion, and W. Parker Seelye, former Connecticut amateur champion.

JOHNNY KILBANE ON WAY TO NEW YORK FOR BOUTS

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion of the world, will go to New York to see the Pete Herman-Johnny Buff bout Friday. While in New York Kilbane said he will consult Tex Rickard in regard to some matches for himself.

"I will fight any featherweight, anywhere, any time," the champion said. "All I ask is that the purse be large enough."

CLAM CHITTY RACES

GRAND RAPIDS, O., Sept. 21.—Grand Clam chitzy races, halted by a downpour of rain yesterday afternoon, will be started shortly after noon today if the track dries out satisfactorily.

Four events, all on yesterday's program, of which two heats were raced before the rain and as much of Wednesday's regular program as can be crowded in, will make up the card. The time trial by Peter Manning against his own record of 1:55 will be offered late in the afternoon. If the conditions of the track permit, other events of the track permit, other events of the track permit, other events of the track permit.

TEXTILE SCHOOL COACH BIG BALL GAMES HERE SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Bert Beckett Is Rounding His Men Into Shape at Rapid Rate

Coach Bert Beckett, former star linesman at Dartmouth college, has been pushing his handful of Lowell Textile school football material at a rapid clip for the past week. Although only a few men have answered the call, Coach Beckett has made the best of his team and as a result a few of the regulars and rookies have picked up some valuable pointers.

This is especially true of drop kicking. The coach demonstrated that he is a past master in this art and has put considerable stress upon this method of scoring. Each day the first duty of the squad is to practice dropping the ball between the uprights.

While it is a bit early to predict much in the line of a team, indications point to the fact that the Lowell Textile team will have a successful season this year. Many of the letter men of last year's team are, or will be, on hand.

Ray Walker reported for practice yesterday but was unable to do much as he is still bothered by a torn muscle in his shoulder. The result of an injury last season which was aggravated by a fall last week. However, Walker will give Coach Beckett valuable aid in the coaching of green material.

Reuben Walker, nine of last year's team have already donated the materials. "Serin" Bird, who played guard; "Hem" Brigham, a halfback; "Mikka" Marble, a quarter; "Lombard," a tackle; "Bilham," a guard; Jack Goetzey, an end; Fendell, a tackle; "Maccher," a halfback; John Schneider, a punter and Nick Hadley, an end, were all out yesterday.

Six newcomers to the squad all show promise of developing into contenders for regular jobs. At these "Turkey" battles, a 250 pounder and "Chink" Thayer, are at present in the line. Flankers, Barrett and Koles are the other men whose ability must be proven.

By the first of the week, when school opens, there will be more candidates will report to the coach. A little more time can be devoted this year to whipping the eleven into shape for the first game, which will be on the schedule for the first game a week from Saturday but that institution has decided not to enter football this season and to devote the entire season to basketball.

Fall River Tech was on the schedule for the first game a week from Saturday but that institution has decided not to enter football this season and to devote the entire season to basketball.

BOXER DIED OF HEART DISEASE

BANGOR, Me., Sept. 21.—An autopsy yesterday on the body of Edward F. Prout, the University of Maine student boxer, died of heart disease. Prout, who was 21 years old, was killed in a boxing match with George Lantry of Waterville, whose death has been due to heart disease of an already diseased heart. Lantry was discharged. He had been held on a charge of manslaughter.

LADIES' GOLF TOURNAMENT

OTTAWA, Sept. 21.—Miss Alexa Stride of Atlanta, Ga., today played her best golf in the first round of the second round of match play for the Canadian ladies' golf championship while Miss Edith Leitch, British champion, met Miss Doris Chambers, who came from England with her to enter the present tournament and the United States championship next month.

LLOYD GEORGE'S "PEACE PEN"

Lloyd George snapped in Scotland, signing for a box of cigars sent him by anonymous American tourists, who wished him success in the Irish peace conferences. See the pen he's using? "This is the pen," he said, "with which I signed the peace treaty and with it I hope to sign the Irish agreement."

POLICE HEAD ADMITS ACCEPTING MONEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, yesterday admitted on the witness stand before the legislative committee inquiring into the city administration that he had received a gift of $12,533 from Allan A. Ryan, financier, whom he had appointed a deputy police commissioner.

A check made out by Allan A. Ryan & Co. to Commissioner Enright for $12,533 was produced as well as a ledger sheet showing that the Ryan concern on April 17, 1919, had engineered a stock transaction, returning that amount. The company had credited Enright with several thousand shares of an oil stock and with the rise in the market a few days later, the stock was sold and he was presented the check.

The commissioner said the check was received after he had appointed Mr. Ryan a deputy commissioner.

Enright's admission came at the conclusion of his testimony regarding the gift of an automobile from Deputy Police Commissioner John A. Harriss. He said that he did not know whether he would keep the machine, but that it had been placed at his disposal by Mr. Harriss.

The commissioner was also questioned regarding his friendship with Harriss and his suspension of a sergeant for failure to recognize the deputy commissioner's badge.

WANT FINANCIER ON SHIPPING BOARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Conferences with several leading bankers, in an effort to obtain for the shipping board the services of a recognized financier to act as its financial vice president, were held yesterday by Chairman Albert D. Lasker. A number of men were under consideration. Mr. Lasker said, but no decision was reached. The chairman and his assistants also conferred with the managing operators of the United States line, now handling the passenger ships taken over from the United States mail lines. The operators, Mr. Lasker said, would meet with the shipping board at Washington next Friday when the question of disposal of the ships, or their continued operation, would be brought up.

Canadian foreign trade for July, 1921, decreased by over $115,000,000 as compared with July of last year.

EVELYN NESBIT HALTS ATTEMPT TO EVICT HER

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Evelyn Nesbit, a central figure in the celebrated Thaw case, successfully forestalled city marshals who attempted to evict her yesterday from her tea room in West 54th street for non-payment of rent and then treated a large crowd of Broadway habitués who witnessed the proceedings to ice cream and coffee.

A dispossession warrant was issued on application of the Trebilcock Realty company controlled by the Shubert theatrical interests. When the marshals appeared the former actress begged them not to disturb patrons then at their meal.

While the marshals waited, Miss Nesbit, hatters and coatless fled in a taxicab to the Shubert offices. She returned triumphant, having obtained a stay until next Saturday, as well as a roll of bills of large denominations which she waved in the direction of her diners, who crowded about to offer congratulations. The crowd outside was then invited to come in for some ice cream as her guests.

Actor Wanted In Arbuckle Case Flees From Train and Vanishes In Auto With Red-Haired Woman

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Lowell Sherman, an actor, who is wanted by District Attorney Brady of San Francisco in connection with the case against Roscoe Arbuckle, today left a train at Harmon, N. Y., when on the way to New York and vanished in an automobile with a red-haired woman. This information was given to a representative of District Attorney Swann's office when he went to the Grand Central station here to meet the Twentieth Century Limited from Chicago and detain Sherman as requested in a telegram from District Attorney Brady.

Mr. Swann at once asked the police of Westchester county to locate Sherman. Harmon is a switching point on the New York Central lines, a few miles up the Hudson above Ossining. All trains stop there, in order that electric engines may be substituted for steam.

Sherman was one of the party assembled in Arbuckle's hotel suite in San Francisco the night Virginia Rappe was injured. Mr. Brady had requested that he be kept under surveillance here should he refuse to return voluntarily to the coast as a witness.

FRANCE GREETSGEN. PERSHING

A. E. F. Commander Returned to France Today—Enthusiastic Welcome

Every Craft in Harbor Dipped Colors and Sounded Sirens—Warships Salute

HAVRE, Sept. 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—General John J. Pershing, commander of the American armies during the great war, returned to France today. The liner Paris on which General Pershing crossed the Atlantic, was escorted into the port of Havre this morning by the French battleships Stasburg and Metz, 10 torpedo boats and 10 destroyers. The general stood on the bridge of the liner, and received a noisy and enthusiastic welcome as the vessel steamed up the roads.

Every craft in the harbor, from fishing smacks to palatial liners, dipped their flags and sounded their sirens, while the batteries on Cape de la Hève boomed a salute of 21 guns, to which the escorting cruisers responded.

The French squadron met the Paris 60 miles out. A thick fog prevailed, and the liner was picked up by means of wireless messages. The squadron falling in with the course of the liner and following it by dead reckoning until sunrise, when the fog lifted.

Marshal Franchet d'Esperey and a numerous staff, and Col. T. Bently Mott, military attaché at the American embassy at Paris, went down the roads in a French line pilot boat to meet the general.

A regiment of infantry lined the quay and a great crowd cheered enthusiastically as General Pershing landed. He was presented with a bouquet of American beauties by a delegation of school children, and was welcomed in the name of the city by Mayor Meyer.

The general wore only two decorations, the French War cross and the insignia of the Legion of Honor. After being welcomed to Havre, he went to the railway station where a special car had been placed at his disposal. His train left for Paris at 12:45 o'clock.

10,000 Cheers Pershing

A feature of the general's welcome to Havre was the hearty cheering which extended him as he rode in General Franchet d'Esperey's motor car from the quay to the city hall, with the 123rd regiment band escorting him, playing "The Star Spangled Banner" and the "Marseillaise" alternately. Fully 10,000 persons lined the route, cheering for America and General Pershing, the latter saluting continually to his right and left. The demonstration was participated in by an even larger number of persons than when the American Legion delegation arrived.

POPE MAKES APPEAL

GENEVA, Sept. 21 (by the Associated Press).—Pope Benedict has addressed to President Van Karnebeck of the assembly of the League of Nations an appeal for the famine sufferers of Russia.

"News we have received concerning Russia has become graver daily," said the pontiff's appeal. "The misery is so great that only the united efforts of the peoples and their governments can assuage it. We, therefore, address, through your excellency, the representatives of all the states united under your presidency and appeal in strongest terms to their feelings of humanity and brotherhood in order that they may take prompt and efficacious measures to all the unhappy people of Russia."

GAVE FIRE ENGINE DEMONSTRATION

A demonstration of the possibilities of the Mack triple engine fire engine, manufactured by the International Motor company of New York, was given in Race street this forenoon for the benefit of Commissioner John F. Salmon by representatives of the concern making the apparatus.

One of the demonstration machines was brought to Lowell and its advantages explained in detail by R. C. Woodhouse and Edward Bent, representing the International Co. The combination is guaranteed for 35 years and, according to its makers, can be run 24 hours a day for 35 days per year, with a minimum of repairs. Its cost is $10,500, delivered with the war tax paid and the services of an instructor provided.

Another advantage which the department would gain by having one of the machines is the fact that a service station with complete equipment and all parts to make repairs is located right here in Lowell. The 1500 feet of hose and 200 feet of chemical. Commissioner Salmon is not in the market for a piece of apparatus at present but agreed to witness the demonstration at the request of representatives of the company. The pumping engine threw a powerful stream during the demonstration. There are no Mack fire engines in the local department at the present time.

MEETS LLOYD GEORGE

Viscount Fitzalan, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, Arrives at Gairloch, Scotland

GAIRLOCH, Scotland, Sept. 21. (By the Associated Press.)—Viscount Fitzalan, Lord Lieutenant and governor-general of Ireland, arrived here this morning on board a destroyer. He conferred with Premier Lloyd George, whose health continues to improve.

Beginning tonight or tomorrow a considerable number of cabinet members will meet Mr. Lloyd George to discuss the pressing problem of unemployment and the Irish situation. Sir Alfred Mond, minister of health, and Thomas J. Macnamara, minister of labor, arrived this morning to present their views for a solution of the unemployment problem. Winston Churchill, secretary of the colonies, returned 120 miles from Dunrobin, on the east coast of Scotland; Lord Birkenhead, the lord high chancellor, is on the way from Glasgow, Rosshire, and Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, is coming from Inverness.

missed its aim and went onto the street striking Mrs. Kelley.

The Naomhsaid told a different story. The defendant stated that Tanaskat threw the ball at Mrs. Naomhsaid as he wanted her to stay out of the pool room. He denied he had a struggle with his wife and that she beat him with the cue stick. Mrs. Naomhsaid corroborated the story told by her husband, saying that the proprietor hurled the ball that struck Mrs. Kelley and likewise denied striking her husband or having any tussle with him. A Gorham street tailor, who claimed to have witnessed the alleged assault, told the judge that Naomhsaid threw the ball at his wife following a dispute in the pool room.

After all the testimony had been presented the court said that Naomhsaid was a "worthless man," having been before him three or four times before on complaints by his wife. He stated he would like to find him but that by doing so he would place a hardship on his wife and children, whom he knew to be in poor financial condition since the husband provided little for them. Counsel for the plaintiff stated that Naomhsaid had refused to pay the doctors' bills incurred by Mrs. Kelley.

Judge Enright then ordered the clerk to find the defendant guilty but to continue the case one month to see if Naomhsaid will pay all expenses met by the injured woman. If he fails to do so, the court warned, he will receive a direct sentence. Mrs. Kelley thought that within a month she will

Woman's Sad Story

Among the various cases before the court were three charges of drunkenness which took up considerable time.

Mrs. Arthur M. Hebb on the witness stand told the court she had been married ten years and since her wedding day had been living a "perfect hell." She said she had been abused by her husband since the day she married him. Although she gave him a number of chances to "reform," he always returned to his drinking habit and made life very miserable for her as well as for a small child. Asked by the court if she wanted to give him another chance the woman stated she would be glad to if she could be assured the man would treat her as a husband should treat a wife and would support their child.

Judge Enright here remarked: "Then some person wonder why we try to clean the city of moonshiners. This is one case resulting from the liquor menace. A happy home wrecked by persons who sell liquor against the law."

He told the wife he would send him to jail if she thought that courts best or would grant him an opportunity to do his duty to his family if she advised him to.

She agreed to let him have another chance and the court imposed a suspended sentence of six months to the house of correction under a probationary term of one year.

Woman Reprimanded

Mrs. Marie Robitaille, who had been summoned to appear as a witness in this case yesterday but failed to show up, was severely reprimanded by the court for her disobedience of the court orders. She said that she had been told by her husband and others not to come to court. Counsel for the plaintiff told the judge he was of the opinion the witness had been tampered with and asked for an investigation. The judge warned the woman not to disregard a court summons again or she would be sent to prison.

The case against Lawrence Plate, charged with stealing a cord of wood valued at $12 at Dunstable recently, was put off until October 5, and William Cassidy for assault and battery was told to appear in court October 1. The case of Alfred Chaput, charged with a statutory offense, is to be heard next Saturday.

MAYOR INVITED TO CAMP DEVENS

Lieut. George D. Crowell, first lieutenant of Co. M of this city, one of the units of the new Third regiment, extended an invitation this morning to Mayor Thompson, on behalf of Col. Murphy, commanding officer of the regiment, to attend a review and dinner to be held next Saturday afternoon by several of the companies of the regiment now encamped at Camp Devens.

The local company has not gone to camp because it has not yet been federalized, but inasmuch as Lowell is represented in the regiment, the presence of the chief executive of the city is desired at the evening review. The mayors of the cities and town officials of the towns represented by the Third regiment companies will be extended similar invitations. Mayor Thompson assured Lieut. Crowell that he would attend.

Co. M is a part of the Third battalion of the regiment and is a machine gun company. Each battalion of the new regiment contains three rifle companies and one machine gun company. The Lowell company is commanded by Capt. Arthur H. Cashin. Lieut. Crowell is first lieutenant and Wesley Wiggin second lieutenant.
